Goldwater's Rule Over Republican Party Is Ended

WASHINGTON (AP) — Barry Goldwater's conservative command of the Republican party was over today, a scant six months after it began.

Accepting a shift he once said would be "a repudiation of me," the former Arizona senator invited Ray C. Bliss of Ohio to take over the Republican National Committee chairmanship now held by his man, Dean Burch.

Burch, picked for the job after Goldwater won the Republican presidential nomination last July 15, said he would step down effective April 1.

The Republican National Committee, which gathers in Chicago in nine days, will act on the plan to have Bliss take over the committee reign, averting a showdown confidence vote on Burch's own tenure.

Announcing the settlement in Phoenix Tuesday, both Goldwater and Burch insisted they could capture a committee majority in a showdown. Privately, allies of the embattled chairman had conceded in advance this probably was not so.

In any event, Goldwater himself said Burch could not command "a clear working mandate."

He said a fight in Chicago "could have scored a victory for neither side, and it would have left our party dangerously divided."

Goldwater said he talked it over with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon "and each of them has concluded it as being in the best interests of our party and our country."

Nixon and Eisenhower told Goldwater a month ago that Burch would have to have a mandate, not just a majority in the National Committee, to continue as chairman.

Nixon declared Tuesday night the end of the dispute over the chairmanship "means unity for the Republican party in 1965 and victory for our candidate in 1966."

"Ray Bliss will be supported by all elements of the party," Nixon said. During the futile campaign to keep Burch as chairman, both he and Gold-

Barry's Era Lasts 6 Months

Ill-Fated Drive Started in Frisco

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was six months ago today. It was opening day of the Republican National Convention and Goldwater banners flew high in the San Francisco sunlight.

Arizona's Sen. Barry Goldwater raced around the city, adding more delegates to a bandwagon already racing toward the GOP presidential nomination.

He won it decisively two days later, and the Cow Palace broke into a thunderous demonstration of cheering, whistling, stomping and parading.

It was a night of jubilant triumph for Goldwater and his followers — the start of a GOP Goldwater era. It was the end of a trail which started months earlier in hectic primary campaigning through snow-covered New Hampshire and reached a climactic turn with victory in the California primary election.

Before leaving the city by the Golden Gate, Goldwater was faced with a major decision — the selection of a Republican national chairman. A lot of prominent names had been mentioned, among them Ohio Chairman Ray Bliss.

But Goldwater reached into his own pre-convention campaign staff and tapped Dean Burch, a Tucson attorney. The committee agreed.

The high hopes of Goldwater supporters in San Francisco were drowned in a flood of Democratic votes Nov. 3 as President Johnson rolled up the nation's biggest popular plurality.

Tuesday, under a mild winter sun at his Phoenix home — where he first announced his candidacy little more than a year ago — Goldwater said Burch would quit April 1 and be succeeded by Ray Bliss of Ohio.

Bliss Expects Transition Of GOP To Be 'Smooth'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ray C. Bliss said today he will work closely with outgoing Republican National Chairman Dean Burch "to bring about a smooth transition of administration."

Bliss, who is expected to be

Sukarno Says He Has No Plan for War

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — President Sukarno said today Indonesia "is not going to make war but if Indonesia is attacked, it will fight and strike back."

Sukarno made the statement to Columbia Broadcasting System correspondent Bernard Kalb. The interview was reported by the official news agency Antara.

To a question on whether he will resign as reported in the foreign press, Sukarno replied: "Just see how hard I am working, every day from morning till late into the night and I never heard that I wanted to resign."

Asked what steps Indonesia intends to take after its withdrawal from the United Nations, Sukarno replied: "Yes, Indonesia withdrew from the United Nations, that is a fact and there would be no follow-up."

Sukarno told reporters that Indonesia's withdrawal from the United Nations definitely would not affect Indonesia's shaky economy.

Following a meeting with top financial and economic officials, Sukarno said that Indonesia's economic development would even be stepped up.

ally—that he would give up his post as Ohio state chairman.

Bliss, asked in an interview if he had any definite plans for uniting various elements of the party, said, "It is my belief that all elements of the party will work together as Republicans. That's my personal view of it."

Burch announced Tuesday that he will submit his resignation to a national committee meeting in Chicago Jan. 22-23. Burch and Sen. Barry Goldwater, who tapped him for the job after he won the GOP presidential nomination, indicated they favored Bliss as a replacement.

Bliss, Ohio chairman since 1948, seemed assured of election, but he declined to comment on what might happen at the Chicago meeting.

"I will work closely with Mr. Burch in the next two months to bring about a smooth transition of administrations," Bliss said. "And more important to make the best possible use of the programs he has worked so hard to develop in the interest of our party."

"If by serving as chairman I can in any way help to strengthen the bonds which unite all of (Continued on Page Two)

AIRBORNE TO FIGHT — Members of Britain's Scots Guards arrive by Royal Air Force helicopter at a forward base some 100 miles from Sarawak. Some 10,000 British and Malaysian troops are entrenched along the 500-mile jungle border on the island as precaution against a possible Indonesia invasion.

School System Overhaul Rapped

A small group of Ohio school superintendents, including Pickaway County Superintendent George McDowell and Circleville Superintendent Fritz Jacobs, have voiced opposition to two proposed programs which would completely overhaul Ohio's school system.

The superintendents, appearing at the State Board of Education's legislative and finance committee hearing on the proposals Tuesday, said they feared creation of a giant "super-structure" coming "too fast" and involving "too much."

The administrators did emphasize that a statewide reorganization would help meet pressing demands on their schools, but indicated they would like to move with less zeal.

The proposals, one by the state board's advisory committee and the other by the Ohio County Superintendents Association, are similar in major respects.

The advisory group's plan would reshuffle administrative operations and force school consolidation into units of no less than 10,000 students.

Superintendents' plans include an administrative shakeup but would allow smaller districts (2,500 students or less) to operate independently.

Forty-four of Ohio's 88 counties have student populations less than 10,000 so units would be created by consolidation. "City and exempted village" designations would be dropped under the committee plan.

But Supt. Clifford Cox of Paulding County suggested that "there is no evidence to guarantee bigness is the solution to the problem. He also warned that a "super structure" could not be built on "a deadwood foundation."

Ross County educator A. E. Gower asserted that consolidation on a local level was often difficult to achieve. As for consolidation on a major scale, "I don't see how you are going to do it," he said.

"I agree that we should continue for better education programs," said Fritz Jacobs of Circleville, Pickaway County. He cited both proposals as "sincere" but said he had "strong reservations" about them.

In Jacob's opinion, the superintendents' plan was "too much and too fast."

No immediate action is expected on either plan, says State Superintendent E. E. Holt. But plans for reorganizing will probably be discussed after the board's February meeting.

However, he has predicted that Ohio is headed for more consolidations.

$3 Million Theft Brings 8-Year Term
VALENTINE, Neb. (AP) — In a 20-minute session that surprised this town of 3,000 in Nebraska's rich cattle country, husky Richard Davenport was sent to jail for a minimum of eight years for embezzlement of funds of the bank he once headed.

Davenport, 45, whose heartiness and wide smile had made him one of the town's most popular men, appeared in court with his wife Tuesday to plead guilty to two counts of embezzlement and told the court he may have taken as much as $3 million.

Only twice did he speak, once to set his estimate of $3 million, and then unemotionally to tell the court that gambling and speculation started the misappropriations which "mushroomed and snowballed."

He was sentenced on one count to 5 to 10 years and to 3 to 5 years on the other. Judge John H. Newton ordered the sentences to run consecutively. That meant that Davenport, with time off for good behavior, must serve a minimum of eight years.

The State Banking Department declared the bank insolvent and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation began paying off depositors up to the insured limit of $10,000, a bare minimum of what many depositors were short. Davenport has turned over personal property to satisfy claims.

Clare Luce Says Hope for GOP Nil
STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Clare Boothe Luce says it would take "another depression or a long and wounding war" to put a Republican back in the White House.

The Democrats will remain in power for at least another 20 years, "as long as peace and prosperity reign," she predicts.

The former playwright, Republican congresswoman from Connecticut and ambassador to Italy spoke to Stanford University students Tuesday.

Yankee Plane Is Shot Down

No Lives Lost In 2 Air Mishaps

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Two American planes went down near the Cambodian border today. One was shot down, the other crashed when it ran out of fuel, U.S. spokesmen said.

No lives were lost in the plane crashes. Two crewmen of a small Army spotter plane suffered second-degree burns when their craft was shot down. A U.S. Air Force officer suffered minor bruises and scratches when his plane ran out of fuel.

Antigovernment demonstrations in four cities subsided, and the demonstrators in Hue prepared to send a delegation to Saigon to discuss their grievances with Chief of State Phan Khanh Suu.

All was reported quiet in Hue, Da Nang, Quang Tri and Nha Trang, where noisy demonstrations took place Tuesday and Monday. Airline flights from Saigon to Hue and Da Nang, canceled Tuesday because of the demonstrations, resumed today.

A three-day general strike ended in Hue, 400 miles north of Saigon.

In Saigon, conferences continued between U.S. officials and Buddhist leaders who oppose Premier Tran Van Huong's government, but the Buddhists were reported taking as hard an antigovernment line as ever.

Communist China charged that "U.S. imperialism" was behind a South Korean government decision to send 2,000 non-combat troops to South Viet Nam.

Red China called the Korean decision "an exceedingly grave move" and said: "If U.S. imperialism continues to prosecute its scheme for expanding its aggressive war in South Viet Nam and even internationalizes that war, the Chinese government and people will have to give further consideration to the duties incumbent upon them for the defense of peace in this area."

Luxury Liners Stalled by Dock Strike
NEW YORK (AP) — Scheduled sailings of two luxury liners have been canceled as seagoing unions of the American merchant marine supported the longshoremen on strike in the Atlantic and Gulf coasts.

The seagoing unions called for immobilization of American-flag passenger ships on the two coasts in a show of unity with the International Longshoremen's Association.

Ship companies ordered the sailings canceled Tuesday after the National Maritime Union and the Seafarers International Union announced that their members would refuse to cross the longshoremen's picket lines.

All three unions are AFL-CIO affiliates. The NMU and the SIU emphasized that they were not striking.

Other unions in addition to the NMU and the SIU — both of which represent unlicensed ship personnel below officer grade — also have pledged support to the 60,000 striking dock workers.

The two big ships knocked out are the superliner United States, flagship of the United States Lines, which had been scheduled to sail for Europe Thursday with 800 passengers; and the Argentina of the Moore McCormack lines, which was to have left New York today with about 180 passengers on an eight-day Caribbean cruise.

Blood Quota Here Set at 130 Pints

A quota of 130 pints will be the objective when the bloodmobile arrives here Friday for its first visit of 1965.

The 130-pint goal was announced today by Robert A. Wavering, chairman of the local Red Cross blood program. The mobile unit will set up operations as usual at the First Methodist Church. Collections will be made from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Wavering said friends and relatives of patients who have received blood or may need it soon, may make replacement donations at any visit of the unit. To avoid waiting in line, donors are requested to make an appointment by calling the local Red Cross Chapter at GR 4-5736.

Due to many questions asked recently regarding the Red Cross blood function, the committee here has outlined pertinent information concerning the program and the way it operates to serve the total population of Pickaway County.

MEMBERS of the panel pointed out that the Central Ohio Red Cross Blood Center, located in Columbus at E. Broad St., covers 23 counties. There are 50 participating hospitals in this region, including Berger, all of which receive their basic blood supply from the Center.

Following a visit of the mobile unit, blood collected is taken to Columbus where it is typed and prepared for use. It is then distributed to hospitals, according to need, upon request from hospital laboratories. Each Red Cross Chapter assumes responsibility for providing hospital blood needs within its jurisdiction when the Center supply is depleted. This is done by contacting donors who have the same blood type as the patient and requesting them to go to the hospital to donate.

Committee spokesmen said it has been necessary to call five special donors during the past two weeks.

Inauguration Guard Beefed
Security Tight To Protect LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lyndon B. Johnson will be the best-protected president in modern history on his inauguration day.

That much is agreed by all concerned with the ceremonies of next Wednesday, but the Secret Service security screen is so dense that it has blocked reporters' access to most of the details.

Among the protective measures known or understood to be planned, to prevent any would-be assassin's attempt to duplicate the tragedy in Dallas 14 months ago, are these:

—Agents with rifles, as well as Army television scanners, will keep watch from Capitol rooftops on the throngs massed in and around the Capitol Plaza where Johnson will take the oath of office and deliver his inaugural address.

—The newly rebuilt and rearmored presidential limousine, with a glass bubbletop 1½ inches thick, is expected to be used for the inaugural parade. It permits good visibility.

—A building-by-building inspection of windows overlooking the parade route will be made in advance by teams of police and Secret Service agents.

—A low wall of quarter-inch armorplate, topped by a bullet-proof glass windshield, will guard the President as he views the bands, marchers and floats from his reviewing stand in front of the White House.

A contractor was installing other sections of glass Tuesday, but his contract provides that the heavy, 10-foot-long center section is to be "finished, installed and removed by others" — presumably by trusted government employees working under Secret Service eyes.

The Secret Service declined today to confirm any of these arrangements. The service operates on the theory that persons with evil intent will have less chance of circumventing security plans if they don't know what the plans are.

Erhard Swinging To DeGaulle View
BERLIN (AP) — Chancellor Ludwig Erhard seems to have swung around to French President Charles de Gaulle's idea of a loose European political union.

Previously the West Germans wanted a closely integrated political union, sometimes referred to as "the United States of Europe." De Gaulle's adamant opposition has made this impossible.

In his first major speech in Berlin since becoming chancellor in 1963, Erhard said Tuesday Europe is not ready for a union in which national individuality is lost. "The value of Europe lies in the fact that it remains alive in all its diversities without gambling away its unity," Erhard said.

LBJ Sees Skill As Yardstick

Old Ethnic Rules Would Be Shelved

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson proposed a sweeping new immigration law to Congress today. It is based on an immigrant's skill and his family ties in the United States.

It would do away with the 40-year-old national-origins quota system. Johnson called the quota system "incompatible with our basic American tradition."

Instead, immigrants would be selected on a first-come, first-serve basis, within a system of preferences based on work and cultural skills and family unity.

The bill is virtually identical to one proposed in 1963 by President John F. Kennedy. Johnson urged Congress today to give the revived bill priority consideration.

He said the proposed law "both serves the national interest and continues our traditional ideals."

"No move could more effectively reaffirm our fundamental belief that a man is to be judged — and judged exclusively — on his worth as a human being," the President said.

The bill, he said, would maintain safeguards against undesirable and excessive immigration, require all immigrants to meet U. S. security requirements, and ensure that no immigrants "could contribute to unemployment in the United States."

Unemployment figured strongly in one of the first congressional comments on the President's proposals.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., said "I don't think we ought to let this country get flooded with immigrants. We've got enough of an unemployment problem as it is." He is a member of the immigration subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., promptly announced he would introduce a bill to carry out Johnson's recommendations and would ask for early Judiciary Committee hearings.

"The quota system should have been changed years ago," Hart said.

An administration source estimated passage of the law eventually would increase the average number of immigrants from 300,000 to 350,000 a year. This would include those admitted by special legislation as well as the 165,000 falling under the new quota, plus immigrants from Western Hemisphere countries that are not subject to quota limitations. Johnson estimated the new law would add about 7,000 to the 158,000 quota immigrants who now come to this country.

Franklin County Police Are Chided
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Holding persons without charges is "illegal," the Columbus Bar Association said today in urging Franklin County police agencies to halt such practices.

The bar association said that arresting a person "for investigation" is violation of the search and seizure and due process provisions of the U. S. and Ohio constitutions.

However, the group said police have the right to arrest and hold a person until a warrant charging him with a crime is obtained.

Hotels Not Jammed Yet in U.S. Capital
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Board of Trade assured prospective out-of-town visitors Tuesday that hotel and motel rooms are available in the Washington area for President Johnson's inauguration next week.

"In spite of what you have heard," it said in a statement, "you can get a hotel or motel room in the Washington area."

It said there are more than 28,500 hotel and motel rooms in the metropolitan Washington area.

Panamanians Demonstrate Against U.S.

PANAMA (AP) — An estimated 1,200 Panamanians demonstrated against the United States Tuesday night and burned an American flag, the third in two days. Panamanian soldiers again kept them away from the Canal Zone with tear gas and shots fired in the air.

The labor-student rally in downtown Santa Ana Plaza was the last scheduled event in a four-day observance of anti-U.S. rioting last January in which 21 Panamanians and four U.S. soldiers were killed.

There was speculation that student agitation might continue today. Some quarters suspected the students hoped continuing unrest would force the government to close the schools and suspend end-of-term examinations due this month.

During the rally in Santa Ana Plaza, National Assembly member Virgilio Schuevener condemned the United States for "imperialism," praised Prime Minister Fidel Castro and predicted that "rivers of blood" will flow in Panama.

There were frequent chants of "Revolution . . . revolution" as other anti-American, antigovernment and pro-Castro speeches harangued the crowd and the U.S. flag was burned. Three empty coffins were on display.

Parts Yard Owner Objects To Fence Erection Laws

A Williamsport resident and owner of an auto junk yard located about one mile north of Circleville on Route 23 has filed a lawsuit in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court opposing legislation requiring a fence to be erected about his place of business.

Jack Clark, doing business as Circleville Auto & Truck Wrecking, has named the following as defendants of the suit: Sheriff Dwight E. Radcliff; Marvin Rhodes, county auditor; Robert H. Huffer, prosecuting attorney; and William Saxbe, attorney general of Ohio.

Clark's petition, filed by Tom A. Renick, claims that County Auditor Rhodes denied renewal of his license to operate the junk yard, known locally as the Apple House. The petition says that statutes provide that the plaintiff is entitled to be issued a license or renewal and that he has one year to erect the required fence if "such junk yard is not obscured by natural objects."

Clark claims he is in doubt and uncertain as to the construction and validity of the Ohio Revised Code section that provides for the erection of a fence. He claims the code sections are unconstitutional and "without force of law in that the sections are based solely on aesthetic considerations."

2 Jets Lost Over Laos

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two U.S. Air Force jet fighters were shot down over Laos today, the Defense Department announced. The announcement, read to newsmen, said:

"A U.S. F100 airplane and a U.S. F105 airplane were shot down in central Laos today by ground fire.

"One pilot has been recovered. Search and rescue operations to recover the other pilot are continuing."

The two planes shot down today brought to six the total of U.S. Air Force and Navy planes shot down during reconnaissance operations over Laos which started last May.

County School Board To Be Reorganized

The Pickaway County Board of education will hold its annual reorganizational meeting 3 p.m. Saturday. It was announced today by George D. McDowell superintendent of county schools.

County board members are Wendell Evans, New Holland, who is currently serving as president; Paul Cromley, Ashville, current vice president; Ralph E. Betz, Stoutsville; C. E. Dick, Mt. Sterling and Judson Bougher, Laurelville.

McDowell serves as clerk of the board.

Polaris Submarines Use Space Satellites

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy says some of its ships — including Polaris submarines — are using a new all-weather satellite system for automatic and precise determination of their position at sea.

The announcement Tuesday said that the last of three satellites in the system was launched in December. While one satellite is enough, three permit fixes of ships' positions every 90 minutes.

and have no substantial relation to the public health, safety, morals or general welfare.

CLARK's petition states that the statutes are arbitrary and unreasonable and that they fail to contain any standards of guidance.

Due to the location of Clark's business with relation to Route 23, the plaintiff claims it is impossible to erect and maintain a fence of sufficient height to obscure the junk yard from the view of traffic on the highway.

Similar cases have been filed in at least 15 other Ohio counties, according to Judge William Ammer, who has granted a temporary injunction against the defendants on behalf of Clark.

Judge Ammer said today the temporary injunctions are being granted until such a time that the Supreme Court hands down a decision on one of the cases.

Stock Prices Climb Again

NEW YORK (AP)—Drugs and airlines rescued market leadership as the stock market moved higher early this afternoon in active trading.

Drugs were in especially heavy demand, their gains ranging from fractions to 1 or 2 points.

Airlines advanced less sharply but the group was consistently higher.

Selective strength elsewhere in the list helped the averages to substantial gains. A 2-point rise by Kennecott and a 1-point advance by Du Pont were features.

Retirement Complete

CLEVELAND (AP) — The retirement of Malcolm C. Smith from railroad is complete. The former vice president and general counsel for the Erie-Lackawanna Railroad Co. has donated his $10,000 model railroad collection — including 40 locomotives, 200 cars and a full mile of tracks, scenery and operating devices — to the Boys Club of Cleveland.

Smith explained that retirement plans for himself and his wife means winters in the Caribbean and summers in a New York apartment, making it almost impossible to take along the train collection.

Court Named To Preside at Murder Trial

Judges have been appointed by the Chief Justice of the Ohio Supreme Court to hear evidence in the case of Daniel Ealey, 47, Williamsport, who was indicted by the Grand Jury for first-degree murder.

Judges to hear the evidence Jan. 20, are William Ammer, Pickaway County Common Pleas Court; Merlin Parent, Fairfield County Common Pleas Court; and C. W. Smith, Vinton County Common Pleas Court.

The three-judge panel was appointed following a request by Ealey's attorney, Emory Smith of Portsmouth, to waive a jury trial and have the three judge court hear the evidence.

According to Smith, Ealey will enter a plea of guilty to general homicide and the court will determine the degree of homicide and Ealey's sentence of which the maximum penalty will be the electric chair.

Ealey was indicted last week for the murders of Emmuel Baldwin and Gale Lewis following an argument in a Williamsport apartment building on Dec. 23.

Robert H. Huffer, prosecuting attorney, will handle the case for the State of Ohio.

Thant Strives To Settle U.N. Dispute

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary-General U Thant sought today to salvage a founding Asian-African plan to settle the stalemate over the General Assembly votes of nations which refuse to pay peacekeeping costs.

Thant held an emergency conference Tuesday night with Assembly President Alex Quaison-Sackey of Ghana after the United States announced it had rejected a provision of the Asian-African plan setting aside the U.N. Charter's Article 19. This penalty clause takes away the assembly vote of any member two years behind in its payments.

Article 19 would take away the vote of the Soviet Union, France and 16 other nations more than two years in arrears on their total assessments because of their refusal to pay peacekeeping dues.

The Soviet Union has indicated it would pay into a voluntary fund without disclosing the amount and provided its payment was not listed as a peacekeeping contribution. It also demanded that Article 19 be suspended and threatened to quit the United Nations if derived of its assembly vote.

Double Parker Pays $35 Fine

Police Find Motorist In Bar Playing Cards

A Chillicothe motorist was fined $35 and costs in Circleville Municipal Court yesterday for double parking.

Stanley Jackson, 23, had parked his truck on West Main St. in a traffic lane, and had then entered a bar where he ate lunch and became involved in a game of cards, according to Circleville Police.

City Police said Jackson's truck was double parked for nearly an hour.

Other motorists appearing on the court docket were:

Arthur N. Wolfe, 33, Circleville; $15 and costs for failure to heed a stop sign.

Herbert Gaines, 52, 208 W. High St.; $15 and costs for failure to heed a stop sign.

Richard Riley, 24, Chillicothe; $10 and costs for speeding 70 miles per hour in a 60 mile zone.

Edgar Parrish Jr., 30, Westerville; $19 bond forfeiture for failure to display his license tags.

Douglas Miller, 30, Columbus; $10 and costs for parking on the traveled portion of the highway.

Elaine Daniels, 27, Columbus; $15 and costs for speeding 65 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

Thomas Tyree, 20, Niton, W. Va.; $15 and costs for speeding 65 miles per hour in a 50 mile zone.

Bliss, known in Ohio as a strong organizer who shuns the spotlight for himself, said, "I offer my assurance that if I am selected to succeed Mr. Burch, I will give myself as wholeheartedly to the national interest of our party as I have over the past 16 years to the Republican party in Ohio."

At one point during the interview Bliss said he wasn't going to answer any more questions. But then he replied to a question about whether he would resign as state chairman: "Well, I certainly am looking forward to unloading part of my responsibility. Obviously at some point there has to be a transition of the state chairmanship."

Among those being mentioned as a successor to Bliss are John S. Andrews of Toledo, Kent B. McGough of Lima and Gordon H. Scherer of Cincinnati.

Bliss was Summit County chairman before he assumed the state reins in 1948 and he continued to hold both chairmanships until last year.

Church-State Controversy Will Be Met 'Head On'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Adam C. Powell says the church-state issue that has stymied federal school aid legislation for years is going to be met head-on this year.

Powell, New York Democrat who heads the House Education and Labor Committee, told a news conference Tuesday the controversy over aid to parochial schools can no longer be allowed to block all education legislation.

"We've got to face up to it squarely," he said, "I don't intend to try to get around it or over it. We're going to meet it." Powell made his comments in discussing President Johnson's $1.66-billion education program, which was laid before Congress Tuesday.

Prompt action by Congress is assured, but what form the legislation will take is highly uncertain.

Although Johnson's announced aim of improving the quality of education in low-income areas was generally approved by members of Congress, educators and the Roman Catholic hierarchy, it was clear that basic differences between them remain.

The main source of potential trouble lies in Johnson's pronouncement that the program should benefit "all children within the area served," coupled with the condition that the federal funds would go to the states for distribution to school districts.

Johnson, other than urging the public and non-public schools to cooperate on projects of benefit to all children, gave no guidelines as to how they should proceed.

Most advocates of public school aid, including the National Education Association, largely ignored the matter. The NEA, in a statement lauding Johnson's program, spoke only of its proposals for the public schools.

But to Rep. Hugh L. Carey, D-N.Y., a Catholic and a member of Powell's committee, there was a glaring inconsistency in Johnson's proposal to finance a program of benefit to all children — meaning those in public and private schools — through the states.

"If you put it through that strainer, you lose all the juice," commented Carey to a reporter. "In 48 states, either by law or policy, public funds cannot go to private schools."

The issue will be met early in both the House and Senate. Powell and Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., who will handle the bill in the Senate, introduced it at once.

Free Breakfast Event Scheduled January 19

A free Pancake and Sausage breakfast sponsored by the Smith-Douglass Fertilizer Co. has been scheduled for Jan. 19 at the Fairgrounds 4-H and Grange Building. The event will start at 9 a.m.

The meeting is for county farmers and their wives. Numerous community civic leaders also will be on hand.

Activity at the oil well on the Blanche Riggan farm in Jackson Twp. is at a near standstill.

Larry McCarthy of Geomac, a Granville geophysical consulting firm, said today the company he represents has been waiting for a heavy freeze before completing the well.

However, he noted they may start moving in the necessary equipment for the pumping operation near the end of the week.

McCarthy noted expenses were much higher if the equipment had to be pulled through mud.

Although the drilling rig has been dismantled, it has not been removed from the site.

Panamanians Demonstrate Against U.S.

PANAMA (AP) — An estimated 1,200 Panamanians demonstrated against the United States Tuesday night and burned an American flag, the third in two days. Panamanian soldiers again kept them away from the Canal Zone with tear gas and shots fired in the air.

The labor-student rally in downtown Santa Ana Plaza was the last scheduled event in a four-day observance of anti-U.S. rioting last January in which 21 Panamanians and four U.S. soldiers were killed.

There was speculation that student agitation might continue today. Some quarters suspected the students hoped continuing unrest would force the government to close the schools and suspend end-of-term examinations due this month.

During the rally in Santa Ana Plaza, National Assembly member Virgilio Schuevener condemned the United States for "imperialism," praised Prime Minister Fidel Castro and predicted that "rivers of blood" will flow in Panama.

There were frequent chants of "Revolution... revolution" as other anti-American, antigovernment and pro-Castro speeches harangued the crowd and the U.S. flag was burned. Three empty coffins were on display.

Parts Yard Owner Objects To Fence Erection Laws

A Williamsport resident and owner of an auto junk yard located about one mile north of Circleville on Route 23 has filed a lawsuit in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court opposing legislation requiring a fence to be erected about his place of business.

Jack Clark, doing business as Circleville Auto & Truck Wrecking, has named the following as defendants of the suit: Sheriff Dwight E. Radcliff; Marvinne Rhoades, county auditor; Robert H. Huffer, prosecuting attorney; and William Saxbe, attorney general of Ohio.

Clark's petition, filed by Tom A. Renick, claims that County Auditor Rhoades denied renewal of his license to operate the junk yard, known locally as the Apple House. The petition says that statutes provide that the plaintiff is entitled to be issued a license or renewal and that he has one year to erect the required fence if "such junk yard is not obscured by natural objects."

Clark claims he is in doubt and uncertain as to the construction and validity of the Ohio Revised Code section that provides for the erection of a fence. He claims the code sections are unconstitutional and "without force of law in that the sections are based solely on aesthetic considerations."

2 Jets Lost Over Laos

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two U.S. Air Force jet fighters were shot down over Laos today, the Defense Department announced.

The announcement, read to newsmen, said: "A U.S. F100 airplane and a U.S. F105 airplane were shot down in central Laos today by ground fire.

"One pilot has been recovered. "Search and rescue operations to recover the other pilot are continuing."

The two planes shot down today brought to six the total of U.S. Air Force and Navy planes shot down during reconnaissance operations over Laos which started last May.

County School Board To Be Reorganized

The Pickaway County Board of education will hold its annual reorganizational meeting 3 p.m. Saturday, it was announced today by George D. McDowell, superintendent of county schools.

County board members are Wendell Evans, New Holland, who is currently serving as president; Paul Cromley, Ashville, current vice president; Ralph E. Betz, Stoutsville; C. E. Dick, Mt. Sterling and Judson Boughner, Laurelville.

McDowell serves as clerk of the board.

Polaris Submarines Use Space Satellites

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy says one of its ships — including Polaris submarines — are using a new all-weather satellite system for automatic and precise determination of their position at sea.

The announcement Tuesday said that the last of three satellites in the system was launched in December. While one satellite is enough, three permit fixes of ships' positions every 90 minutes.

and have no substantial relation to the public health, safety, morals or general welfare.

CLARK'S petition states that the statutes are arbitrary and unreasonable and that they fail to contain any standards of guidance.

Due to the location of Clark's business with relation to Route 23, the plaintiff claims it is impossible to erect and maintain a fence of sufficient height to obscure the junk yard from the view of traffic on the highway.

Similar cases have been filed in at least 15 other Ohio counties, according to Judge William Ammer, who has granted a temporary injunction against the defendants on behalf of Clark.

Judge Ammer said today the temporary injunctions are being granted until such a time that the Supreme Court hands down a decision on one of the cases.

Court Named To Preside at Murder Trial

Judges have been appointed by the Chief Justice of the Ohio Supreme Court to hear evidence in the case of Daniel Ealey, 47, Williamsport, who was indicted by the Grand Jury for first-degree murder.

Judges to hear the evidence Jan. 20, are William Ammer, Pickaway County Common Pleas Court; Merlin Parent, Fairfield County Common Pleas Court; and C. W. Smith, Vinton County Common Pleas Court.

The three-judge panel was appointed following a request by Ealey's attorney, Emory Smith of Portsmouth, to waive a jury trial and have the three judge court hear the evidence.

According to Smith, Ealey will enter a plea of guilty to general homicide and the court will determine the degree of homicide and Ealey's sentence of which the maximum penalty will be the electric chair.

Ealey was indicted last week for the murders of Emmuel Baldwin and Gale Lewis following an argument in a Williamsport apartment building on Dec. 23.

Thant Strives To Settle U.N. Dispute

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Secretary-General U Thant sought today to salvage a foundering Asian-African plan to settle the stalemate over the General Assembly votes of nations which refuse to pay peace-keeping costs.

Thant held an emergency conference Tuesday night with Assembly President Alex Quaison-Sackey of Ghana after the United States announced it had rejected a provision of the Asian-African plan setting aside the U.N. Article 19 would take away the vote of the Soviet Union, France and 16 other nations more than two years in arrears on their total assessments because of their refusal to pay peacekeeping dues.

The Soviet Union has indicated it would pay into a voluntary fund without disclosing the amount and provided its payment was not listed as a peacekeeping contribution. It also demanded that Article 19 be suspended and threatened to quit the United Nations if derived of its assembly vote.

as Republicans, I will then feel the confidence Sen. Goldwater and others have expressed in me to be earned."

Bliss, known in Ohio as a strong organizer who shuns the spotlight for himself, said, "I offer my assurance that if I am selected to succeed Mr. Burch, I will give myself as wholeheartedly to the national interest of our party as I have over the past 16 years to the Republican party in Ohio."

At one point during the interview Bliss said he wasn't going to answer any more questions. But then he replied to a question about whether he would resign as state chairman: "Well, I certainly am looking forward to unloading part of my responsibility. Obviously at some point there has to be a transition of the state chairmanship."

Among those being mentioned as a successor to Bliss are John S. Andrews of Toledo, Kent B. McGough of Lima and Gordon H. Scherer of Cincinnati.

Bliss was Summit County chairman before he assumed the state reins in 1948 and he continued to hold both chairmanships until last year.

Joy Hay To Attend State SCS Convention

Jay Hay, Route 2, Ashville, a member of the Pickaway Soil Conservation District board of supervisors, will be the local delegate attending the Ohio Federation of Soil and Water Conservation districts.

The 2nd annual meeting of the state wide group will be held at the Southern Hotel, Columbus, Jan. 19-21.

Pontiac Sales Listed For December at 19

Nineteen Pontiac automobiles were purchased by Pickaway Countians during December and were third on the scoreboard of 1965 models purchased during the month.

Pontiac sales were inadvertently omitted from a list, published yesterday, that showed the number of new cars sold to Pickaway Countians during December.

FIRE DESTROYS THREE-QUARTERS OF TOWN—Residents of Matomachi on the island of O Shima, Japan, view the smoking ruins after fire destroyed three-fourths of the town some 60 miles south of Tokyo. Church-State Controversy Will Be Met 'Head On'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Adam C. Powell says the church-state issue that has stymied federal school aid legislation for years is going to be met head-on this year.

Powell, New York Democrat who heads the House Education and Labor Committee, told a news conference Tuesday the controversy over aid to parochial schools can no longer be allowed to block all education legislation.

"We've got to face up to it squarely," he said. "I don't intend to try to get around it or over it. We're going to meet it."

Powell made his comments in discussing President Johnson's $1.66-billion education program, which was laid before Congress Tuesday. Prompt action by Congress is assured, but what form the legislation will take is highly uncertain.

Although Johnson's announced aim of improving the quality of education in low-income areas was generally approved by members of Congress, educators and the Roman Catholic hierarchy, it was clear that basic differences between them remain.

The main source of potential trouble lies in Johnson's pronouncement that the program should benefit "all children within the area served," coupled with the condition that the federal funds would go to the states for distribution to school districts.

Johnson, other than urging the public and non-public schools to cooperate on projects of benefit to all children, gave no guidelines as to how they should proceed.

Most advocates of public school aid, including the National Education Association, largely ignored the matter. The NEA, in a statement lauding Johnson's program, spoke only of its proposals for the public schools.

But to Rep. Hugh L. Carey, D-N.Y., a Catholic and a member of Powell's committee, there was a glaring inconsistency in Johnson's proposal to finance a program of benefit to all children — meaning those in public and private schools — through the states.

"If you put it through that strainer, you lose all the juice," commented Carey to a reporter. "In 48 states, either by law or policy, public funds cannot go to private schools."

The issue will be met early in both the House and Senate. Powell and Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., who will handle the bill in the Senate, introduced it at once.

A scattering of Goldwater men remain on the skeleton, off-year staff, including Charles Liechtenstein, recently renamed committee research director, and treasurer William Mendenhall III.

Bliss was a member of Goldwater's three-man campaign steering committee, which advised the nominee on strategy and mapped his schedules. He was not a pre-convention Goldwater booster.

Activity Slow At Riggins Well

Activity at the oil well on the Blanche Riggins farm in Jackson Twp. is at a near standstill. Larry McCarthy of Geomac, a Granville geophysical consulting firm, said today the company he represents has been waiting for a heavy freeze before completing the well.

However, he noted they may start moving in the necessary equipment for the pumping operation near the end of the week.

McCarthy noted expenses were much higher if the equipment had to be pulled through mud.

Although the drilling rig has been dismantled, it has not been removed from the site.

Goldwater's . . .

water had questioned whether conservative Republicans would go along.

"I feel the removal of Dean Burch now would be a repudiation of a great segment of our party and a repudiation of me," Goldwater said in a Dec. 26 letter to National Committee members.

Five days later, Burch wrote committee members he was facing ouster demands as a symbol of Goldwater and of conservative Republicans.

"If this is true," he said, "then my resignation under pressure at this time would clearly be interpreted as a full repudiation by the Republican party of all those voters who identified themselves with responsible conservative Republicanism."

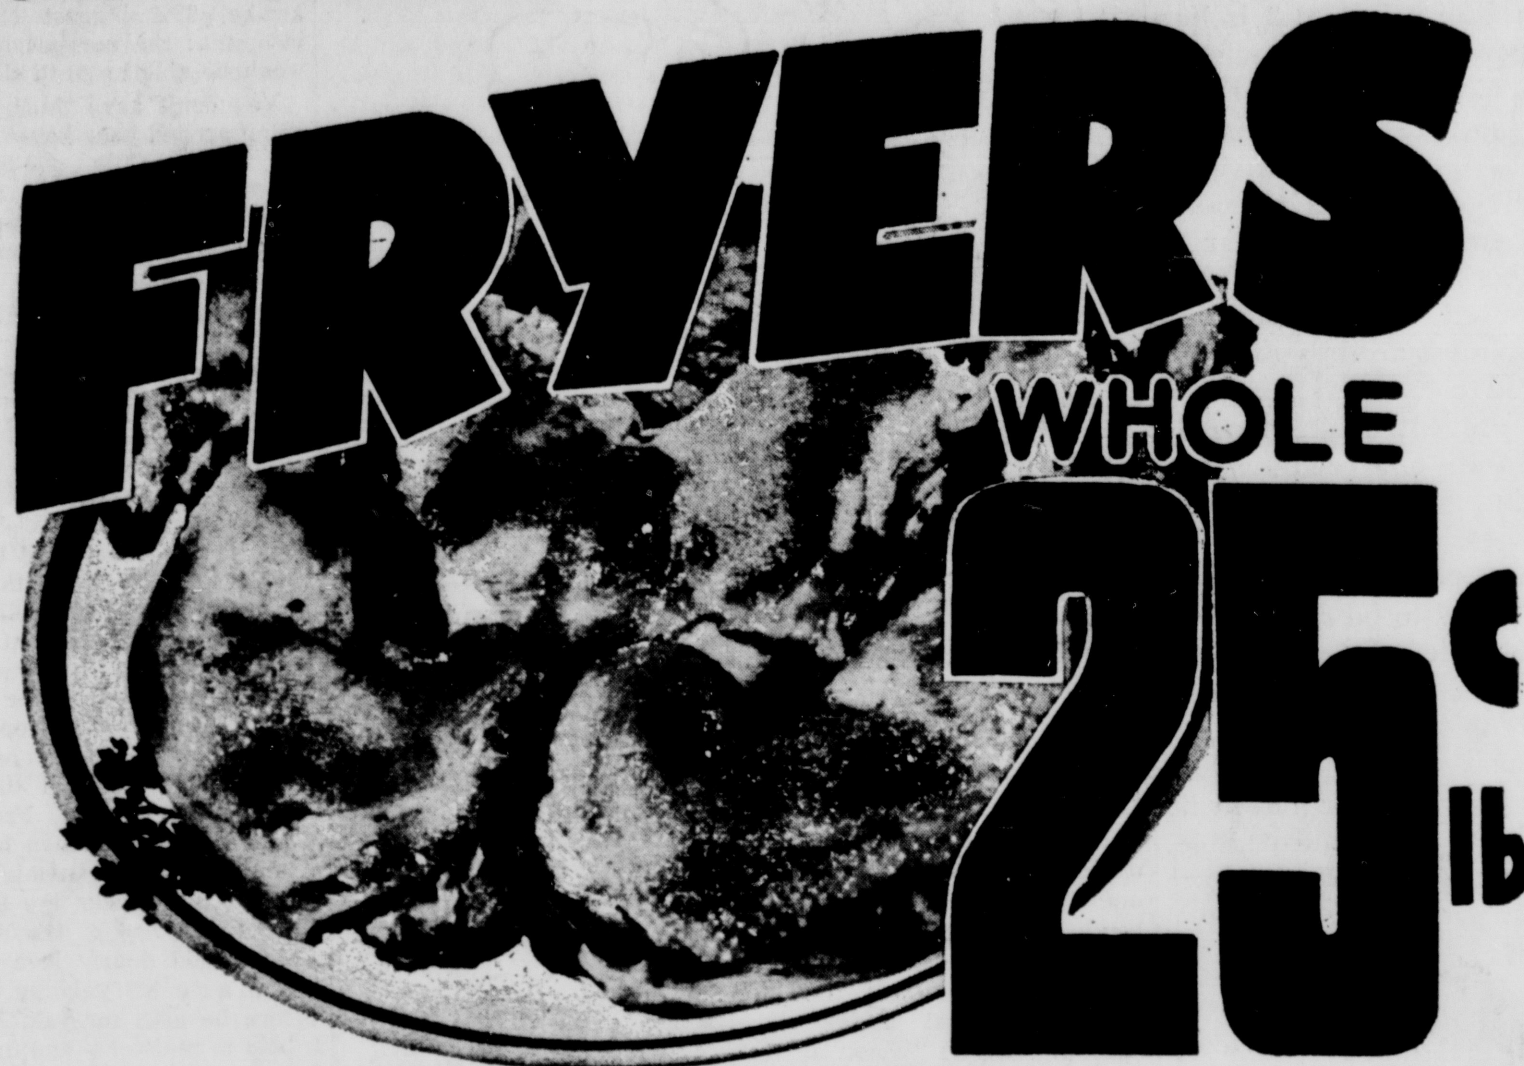

Reacting to Burch's resignation, the GOP national committeewoman from Oklahoma said conservatives might take it just that way.

Everybody Owes

A striking anachronism of the present unprecedented prosperity cycle is that it seems incapable of ameliorating some of the economic maladjustments which usually accompany recessions or depressions.

Unemployment, for instance, holds even at about 4 million persons, or five per cent of the working population. Record earnings, record wages, a record gross national product — none of these seems to provide a solution for the unemployed. Even a record outlay by government for welfare and poverty programs cannot claim any improvement.

Government spending in excess of income is another illustration. It formerly was the argument of liberal economists that deficit spending was necessary during periods of recession, but they also argued those deficits could be made up by budget surpluses in times of prosperity.

During the four years of the current boom, not a single budget has been balanced. To the contrary, the deficit for this period has been larger than for any previous four years, except during World War II.

Or take credit overextension. There no longer should be much doubt that the American economy is based on credit, both in business and in personal dealings. But there is still a point at which credit is overextended, and that point is being reached by increasing numbers of individuals and businesses.

Bankruptcy is one of the most widely used barometers for indicating over-optimism in debt extension, and the number of business failures in recent years has been steadily increasing. But more startling is the rapid rise in the number of personal bankruptcies. In the four years between 1960 and 1964, personal bankruptcies rose 60 per cent, from 99,000 to 155,000.

Last year, creditors lost $1.2 billion as a result of personal bankruptcies.

In an effort to aid the growing armies of debt-ridden individuals, only partly reflected by bankruptcies, a number of non-profit credit counseling agencies have been started in the last year in cities all over the United States. These agencies, sponsored by businessmen, banks and others most directly affected by debt-burdened consumers, are frequently able to prevent bankruptcy by interceding between creditor and debtor and placing the latter on a sound money-management program.

Unsound money policies by government units are bound to be reflected in consumer management practices, as the rise in individual bankruptcies indicates. It is good to see financial institutions and businessmen substitute sound consumer practices for those who find pie-in-the-sky theories unworkable.

Cancer Vaccine Next?

One of the most optimistic recent reports on cancer research came from Montreal the other day, where a meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of science was in progress.

Dr. Jacob Gershon-Cohen, head of the radiology department of Albert Einstein Medical Center in Philadelphia, predicted that there may be positive results in the conquest of cancer before men land on the moon — now forecast to be no more than a decade away. Progress in cell chemistry in recent years is more miraculous than the discovery of nuclear fission, the doctor said.

He said it no longer is unreasonable to predict that vaccines against cancer may be developed, to take their place alongside those for smallpox, yellow fever and polio. Scientists of many nations are working steadily and sharing their information.

NEW YORK (AP) — The federal government's new spending plans will be revealed piecemeal in coming days and weeks as presidential messages pepper Capitol Hill. The total may well be impressive.

But businessmen are noting that federal spending in itself added little impetus to the economic activity that burgeoned for other reasons in 1964. They doubt if federal outlays will increase enough this year to play much of a role in keeping the economy growing faster.

Bankers think Washington's monetary policies will have a bigger part, both in stimulating business and in affecting confidence, than the size of the U.S. budget, or of total federal spending, which is always greater than the formal budget.

State and local spending has climbed steadily, and will continue to do so. This will feed the economic growth in 1965, as it notably has since 1962. But federal spending has gone up fairly sedately, even if the mix among the defense and civilian projects sometimes varied markedly.

Treasury fiscal policies, however, already are affecting confidence in the banking and investment world. The Federal Reserve Bank of New York notes today that Treasury plans for a major refunding this month had a large part in quieting American jitters caused by signs of weakness in the British pound sterling and increased buying of gold on the free market.

Announcement that holders of $33 billion of eight outstanding issues of government securities would be given the chance to trade them in for three issues of longer maturity—and more generous interest rates—quickly improved the tone of the money market, the bank says.

Treasury calm, it explains, made investors feel that "the sterling situation must be less threatening than had been feared." By going ahead this month with business as usual the Treasury was saying that the U.S. economy is strong and getting stronger. Future moves by the Treasury in handling the federal debt also can either bolster confidence or put a rein on it.

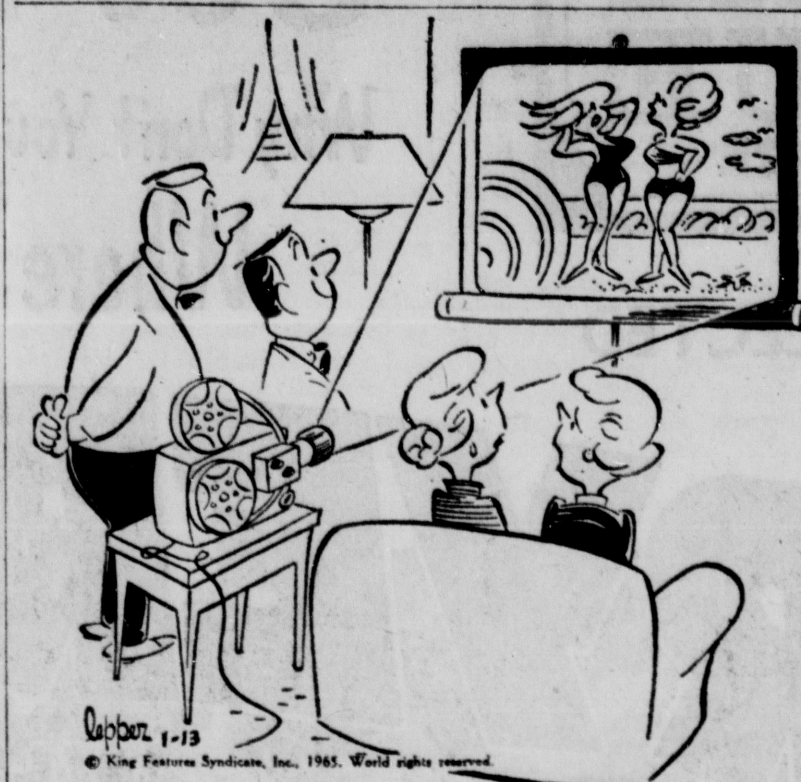

Handling of the U.S. Treasury deficit, as new budget proposals will soon show, can also affect business confidence. The expectation is that the deficit will continue as almost a Treasury fixture, but that it won't be increased or decreased very much.

What is histamine and why are anti-histamine drugs used to counteract it?

Histamine is a substance that is produced in many tissues and cells of the body. It plays an important role in body growth, gastric secretions and blood circulation. Excess amounts of histamine are found in the blood of people with asthma, hives and hay fever. It is also produced in excess when the body suffers severe burns or is exposed to extreme cold.

Excess quantities of histamine quickly alter normal body functions. Anti-histamine drugs are used to re-establish the normal histamine level.

Histamine is involved in the most sensitive body balance mechanism. Its tremendous importance is best illustrated by the vast international scientific studies that seek to untangle its vital and complicated functions in health and disease.

What is the most common cause of bad breath?

Bad breath, or halitosis, has many different causes. Infections of the teeth, the gums, the tonsils and the sinuses, chronic bronchitis and bronchiectasis are only a few of the possible causes. Some stomach and intestinal conditions can be responsible for this socially distressing problem.

Eating large quantities of garlic, onions, certain herbs or strong spices can produce temporary odors in the breath, sometimes not so temporary!

Persistent bad breath should be investigated by a doctor in order to uncover its underlying cause.

Legitimate Beef

By John Chamberlain

Thomas Deegan, the Chairman of the Executive Committee of the New York World's Fair, is out to create a body of "yakkers" to talk up the wonders of the show that will be opening again next April at Flushing Meadow. He plans to enlist in his project all the natural talkers of the metropolis — the taxi drivers, the barbers, the hairdressers, and the bartenders. My friend Fred G. Clark, the Chairman of the American Economic Foundation which backs the Hall of Free Enterprise at the World's Fair, would dearly love to get his share of yacking. But before he asks for yak, he has a beef to register — and the beef is quite legitimate.

The Hall of Free Enterprise has been one of the great attractions of the World's Fair. It puts on a show called "Mr. Both Comes to Town." Mr. Both being both producer and consumer and nobody can watch Mr. Both in action without coming away with a clear conception of how the free enterprise system works. The electronic display at the Hall of Free Enterprise, which shows what happens to a town when its main factory closes, offers irrefutable proof that a profit and loss system generates more income for more people than any other economic system that could be devised. With its definition-dispensing machines it has been a great educational influence, attracting a million visitors who have had their horizons broadened by entering its portals. For example, before watching the show only twenty-one per cent of a sample group named freedom as the key to the prosperity of the advanced nations, and only fourteen per cent mentioned tools. After seeing the show, forty-eight per cent named freedom as the cause, and seventy-two per cent named tools.

The Hall of Free Enterprise plugs capitalism without preaching; it depends on visual flow charts to show "where the money goes." It makes the point that profit is an "essential cost," for industries that are without profit find it impossible to raise investment capital. Even the Soviets have come to see that profits are necessary as an index to what kinds of renovation and development are demanded in an industry, so the Hall of Free Enterprise method of dramatizing the function of profit can hardly be written off as propaganda.

The mystery about the Hall of Free Enterprise is that Big Business itself is so glibly in supporting it. Mr. Clark's show is not in the parlous condition of the Top of the Fair restaurant, which has gone bankrupt. But it has sometimes been hard put to it to pay the rent. The people have thronged through the doors of the Hall, but the big corporations, with some honorable exceptions, have found excuses to dodge any responsibility for maintaining something that, more than any course now being taught in the universities or high schools, demonstrates their essential reason for existence.

The trouble is, as Mr. Clark diagnoses it, is that requests for corporate contributions are usually handed over to contributions Committees which are set to dole out money as charity. "Their members," says Mr. Clark, "are products of our schools and are timid about supporting something... that might be considered controversial — something that might boomerang and destroy their jobs." The excuses come in four categories, each taking off from a usually unvaried topic sentence. Number One is: "We are already supporting the World's Fair." Two is: "Our budget for charity is fully committed." Three is: "We are already supporting similar economic education programs." And four is: "We have our own pavilion at the Worlds Fair."

Every single one of these excuses demonstrates a lack of logic that hardly bodes well for the future of the American business system. In the first place, it is not "charity" for a big industry to support something that provides a brilliant demonstration of its superiority over socialist methods of production. Secondly, there is no program in the United States that is remotely similar to "Mr. Both Comes to Town." And thirdly, the companies that "have their own pavilion" at the Fair are selling commercial products, not the survival of the system that produces and distributes those products.

This column, which often stands amazed at the inability or unwillingness of American enterprisers to defend their own economic culture, is glad to pass along Mr. Clark's beef. Now let the yakkers take over.

Future moves by the Treasury in handling the federal debt also can either bolster confidence or put a rein on it.

Handling of the U.S. Treasury deficit, as new budget proposals will soon show, can also affect business confidence. The expectation is that the deficit will continue as almost a Treasury fixture, but that it won't be increased or decreased very much.

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

What is histamine and why are anti-histamine drugs used to counteract it?

Histamine is a substance that is produced in many tissues and cells of the body. It plays an important role in body growth, gastric secretions and blood circulation. Excess amounts of histamine are found in the blood of people with asthma, hives and hay fever. It is also produced in excess when the body suffers severe burns or is exposed to extreme cold.

Excess quantities of histamine quickly alter normal body functions. Anti-histamine drugs are used to re-establish the normal histamine level.

Histamine is involved in the most sensitive body balance mechanism. Its tremendous importance is best illustrated by the vast international scientific studies that seek to untangle its vital and complicated functions in health and disease.

What is the most common cause of bad breath?

Bad breath, or halitosis, has many different causes. Infections of the teeth, the gums, the tonsils and the sinuses, chronic bronchitis and bronchiectasis are only a few of the possible causes. Some stomach and intestinal conditions can be responsible for this socially distressing problem.

Eating large quantities of garlic, onions, certain herbs or strong spices can produce temporary odors in the breath, sometimes not so temporary! Persistent bad breath should be investigated by a doctor in order to uncover its underlying cause.

The thought of having unpleasant breath can be psychologically distressing. In many instances, people may mere-

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

Legitimate Beef

By John Chamberlain

Thomas Deegan, the Chairman of the Executive Committee of the New York World's Fair, is out to create a body of "yakkers" to talk up the wonders of the show that will be opening again next April at Flushing Meadow. He plans to enlist in his project all the natural talkers of the metropolis — the taxi drivers, the barbers, the hairdressers, and the bartenders. My friend Fred G. Clark, the Chairman of the American Economic Foundation which backs the Hall of Free Enterprise at the World's Fair, would dearly love to get his share of yacking. But before he asks for yak, he has a beef to register — and the beef is quite legitimate.

The Hall of Free Enterprise has been one of the great attractions of the World's Fair. It puts on a show called "Mr. Both Comes to Town" Mr. Both being both producer and consumer and nobody can watch Mr. Both in action without coming away with a clear conception of how the free enterprise system works. The electronic display at the Hall of Free Enterprise, which shows what happens to a town when its main factory closes, offers irrefutable proof that a profit and loss system generates more income for more people than any other economic system that could be devised. With its definition-dispensing machines it has been a great educational influence, attracting a million visitors who have had their horizons broadened by entering its portals. For example, before watching the show only twenty-one per cent of a sample group named freedom as the key to the prosperity of the advanced nations, and only fourteen per cent mentioned tools. After seeing the show, forty-eight per cent named freedom as the cause, and seventy-two per cent named tools.

The Hall of Free Enterprise plugs capitalism without preaching; it depends on visual flow charts to show "where the money goes." It makes the point that profit is an "essential cost," for industries that are without profit find it impossible to raise investment capital. Even the Soviets have come to see that profits are necessary as an index to what kinds of renovation and development are demanded in an industry, so the Hall of Free Enterprise method of dramatizing the function of profit can hardly be written off as propaganda.

The mystery about the Hall of Free Enterprise is that Big Business itself is so niggardly in supporting it. Mr. Clark's show is not in the parlous condition of the Top of the Fair restaurant, which has gone bankrupt. But it has sometimes been hard put to it to pay the rent. The people have thronged through the doors of the Hall, but the big corporations, with some honorable exceptions, have found excuses to dodge any responsibility for maintaining something that, more than any course now being taught in the universities or high schools, demonstrates their essential reason for existence.

The trouble is, as Mr. Clark diagnoses it, is that requests for corporate contributions are usually handed over to contributions Committees which are set to dole out money as charity. "Their members," says Mr. Clark, "are products of our schools and are timid about supporting something... that might be considered controversial — something that might boomerang and destroy their jobs." The excuses come in four categories, each taking off from a usually unvaried topic sentence. Number One is: "We are already supporting the World's Fair." Two is: "Our budget for charity is fully committed." Three is: "We are already supporting similar economic education programs." And four is: "We have our own pavilion at the World's Fair."

Every single one of these excuses demonstrates a lack of logic that hardly bodes well for the future of the American business system. In the first place, it is not "charity" for a big industry to support something that provides a brilliant demonstration of its superiority over socialist methods of production. Secondly, there is no program in the United States that is remotely similar to "Mr. Both Comes to Town." And thirdly, the companies that "have their own pavilion" at the Fair are selling commercial products, not the survival of the system that produces and distributes those products.

This column, which often stands amazed at the inability or unwillingness of American enterprisers to defend their own economic culture, is glad to pass along Mr. Clark's beef. Now let the yakkers take over.

'Frontier' State Is Air-Minded

An Alaska air taxi about to take off.

By SANDO BOLOGNA

ANCHORAGE — Alaska, as the "frontier" state, has a limited system of highways, rail and water transportation.

However, as its air-minded population expands its network of airfields, Alaska has been designated the "flyingest" state. Many children in the interior of the state ride in airplanes before they ride in automobiles.

A survey shows that there are 64 aircraft per 10,000 Alaskans, or about one plane for every 156 residents, according to the Federal Aviation Agency.

Alaska boasts 366 airports (some are small gravel strips) which is a larger number than are found in all other states, except California and Texas.

It is estimated that the annual number of passenger movements in Alaska is two per cent resident. The average within the other states is one for every 11 residents. One out of every 55 Alaskans has a pilot's license.

Anchorage, founded as a tent city in 1915 when the United States government was building the Alaska Railroad, is the most air-minded city in the sprawling state. It is served by the state-owned Anchorage International Airport, the municipally-operated Merrill Airport, the world's busiest float plane base, two nearby military airfields, and several adjacent strips.

Merrill Airport handles more traffic annually than many major airports. A total of 26 airlines and 92 air taxi operators use Anchorage facilities to transport passengers and freight throughout Alaska and other countries.

Planes with pontoons use landing and "parking" facilities at Lake Spenard and Lake Hood both near the Anchorage International Airport.

The extensiveness of Alaska spreads 1,500 miles from Point Barrow, at the northernmost point, to the southeastern tip, below Ketchikan. About 2,100 miles are covered between the eastern boundary and the farthest tip of the Aleutian Islands.

Pilots in Alaska must be prepared for extraordinary flight conditions. Because the temperature slumps to 50 degrees below zero, aircraft must be suitably protected for that type of weather.

Thus, it's not unusual for pilots to replace wheels and pontoons with skis. Airfields and water landing areas are replaced by frozen lake strips.

STOCKHOLDERS VOTING ON MERGER—Wearing their work clothes, fireman Dean Jensen (left), Joliet, Ill., and engineer Oscar F. 2 Ohio Veterans Units Slated To Be Closed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Veterans Administration says it plans to close 31 of its installations around the nation, including two in Ohio.

The installations involve 11 hospitals, including one at Brecksville, Ohio; three veterans homes and 17 regional offices, including one at Cincinnati, whose duties will be assumed by the Cleveland office. In Brecksville, the hospital administrator said he has no official word from Washington but apparently what is being closed is the Broadview Heights Division of the Brecksville hospital, which is primarily for tuberculosis patients.

Circleville AAUW Meets

Miss Mary Anne Schlegel of Chillicothe was a special guest when the American Association of University Women met recently in the home of Mrs. J. Austin Dowden, Route 2.

The guest is the consultant for the Circleville Branch of the AAUW.

Mrs. Carl Heffelfinger, president, explained the purposes and goals of the organization. She stated that membership requirements are as follows: All women who hold baccalaureate or higher degrees from colleges and universities on the AAUW qualified list or a degree from a foreign institution recognized by the International Federation of University Women may join the association. Mrs. Dowden is membership chairman and in institutions recognized by the AAUW number over 800.

The president added that the branch offers opportunities for continuing intellectual growth, individual usefulness and leadership.

Officers and chairmen were introduced and briefly explained their respective jobs.

The next branch meeting will be 8 p.m. Jan. 26 in the Carriage House. Prospective members are urged to attend.

Mrs. Radcliffe Hosts Circle

Twelve members of Circle No. 2, WSWs of the First EUB Church, met Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Mary Radcliffe. Mrs. Agnes Nau was assisting hostess.

Mrs. Mae Hawkes, leader, opened the meeting with prayer. Reports were given concerning recent activities.

Mrs. Mary Ann Willoughby told of the gifts taken to the Otterbein Home last month. Plans were discussed for another visit to the home in June. She read an article on brotherhood and Mrs. Radcliffe closed with prayer.

Dear Abby: The Wrong Chase?

DEAR ABBY: Ten years ago I married what I thought was a sweet, understanding country girl. I was a city boy. Now we have three children. I have always loved to hunt. Before I got married, five buddies and I used to go out of state to hunt deer for a week every year. My buddies are all married now, too, and their wives let them go on these hunting trips, but my wife won't let me go. She says killing deer is inhuman and we are a bunch of savages. She refuses to cook wild game and she absolutely forbids our sons to play with toy guns. What do you suggest?

ABOUT HAD IT
DEAR ABOUT: If you can't persuade your wife that deer hunting is neither inhuman nor savage (and good hunters are familiar with all the arguments), you had better hunt yourself up another hobby. You can't win 'em all, and it would appear that your wife has "about had it" on the hunting issue, too.

DEAR ABBY: The manufacturers of men's clothing saved money when they took away the vest, a very handy garment. Then they raised the price of men's suits. How come?

DON'T GET IT
DEAR DON'T: Where have you been? The vests are coming back. But don't wish for the "good old prices" on men's clothing unless you want the "good old wages" that went with them.

DEAR ABBY: How often I have heard that my husband and I are the happiest couple in town! Yet, after 27 years of marriage, two fine, well-educated children, plus three grandchildren, I found out that my husband has been unfaithful to me with a woman who works for him. Before making any accusations, I hired a lawyer and a private detective to get the facts. The evidence they brought me (photographs and tape recordings) was a blow I shall never get over. My soul is dead. I have repeatedly asked my husband to confess his guilt, but he responds with more lies. (He doesn't know I have the evidence.) It has been six months and I am still waiting for him to tell me the truth. The hurt and humiliation is more than I can bear. How much longer shall I give him? Please answer before I do something foolish to him or to myself.

DON'T USE NAME
DEAR DON'T: Quit punishing yourself and confront your husband with the evidence.

DEAR ABBY: About 15 years ago I was given a recipe for old-fashioned Swedish meatballs. I have used it often, improving upon it by changing the proportions a little here and there, and adding some special spices to suit my taste. Every time I serve my Swedish meatballs, someone asks for the recipe. I have been giving out the original recipe, just as it was given to me. Is this dishonest?

GOOD COOK
DEAR COOK: Yes. Your friends wanted the recipe for the meatballs you served them. Since you were unwilling to share it, you should have said so.

Lausche Is Sponsor Of Strip Mine Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, and two other senators have introduced a bill to provide for a study by the Interior Department on the after effects of strip and surface mining operations.

Lausche said that under the bill, co-sponsored by Vance Hartke, D-Ind., and Hugh Scott, R-Pa., a beneficial land-use study would be made in order that Congress could determine in what manner and in what degree it would have responsibility in helping to restore to usefulness the areas desolated by the mining operations.

Circleville AAUW Meets

Miss Mary Anne Schlegel of Chillicothe was a special guest when the American Association of University Women met recently in the home of Mrs. J. Austin Dowden, Route 2.

The guest is the consultant for the Circleville Branch of the AAUW.

Mrs. Carl Heffelfinger, president, explained the purposes and goals of the organization. She stated that membership requirements are as follows: All women who hold baccalaureate or higher degrees from colleges and universities on the AAUW qualified list or a degree from a foreign institution recognized by the International Federation of University Women may join the association. Mrs. Dowden is membership chairman and in institutions recognized by the AAUW number over 800.

The president added that the branch offers opportunities for continuing intellectual growth, individual usefulness and leadership.

Officers and chairmen were introduced and briefly explained their respective jobs.

The next branch meeting will be 8 p.m. Jan. 26 in the Carriage House. Prospective members are urged to attend.

Sheriff's Office Handles Heavy Work Load in 1964

Former Pickaway County Sheriff Walton W. Spangler has completed a recap of his activities in office during 1964.

Spangler's four-year term in office was capped with the investigation of four murders committed during his last month as sheriff.

Two of these murders were committed by a man who later committed suicide. Spangler pointed out that this brought the case to a quick conclusion.

Facing accusations of the other two homicides is Daniel Ealey, who is now being held in the Pickaway County Jail. He is due for arraignment Jan. 20.

DURING 1964 the department investigated seven suicides. Four of them occurred during the last two months of the year. The department investigated six accidental gunshot wounds and hunting accidents.

An airplane accident in Salt-creek Twp. that claimed the lives of two Lockbourne stationed airmen was initially investigated by the local department.

Spangler noted that 28 burglaries, a reduction of one-third over 1963, were probed by the department. A total of 97 thefts, a reduction of 9 per cent over the previous year, were investigated.

Stolen property recovered by the department amounted to $20,170 during the year.

Three people were killed and 206 people were injured in the 371 accidents investigated by the department. Damage to cars and private property was estimated at $176,451. There were 205 wrecker calls and 90 ambulance summons.

THE FOUR cars operated by the department were driven 153,830 miles which included two out-of-state trips. One of the jaunts was to Tennessee to bring back a local juvenile girl and the other to Gallup, N.M., to return a man.

The recap of the year's activities noted that 25 blood runs were made to Berger and surrounding hospitals.

A total of 1,862 papers were served by the department and $4,155.86 in fees were collected.

Fees for boarding prisoners for the city and villages

Business Briefs

A new, 1965 Mercury Ambulance has been purchased through Circleville Motors by the Defenbaugh Funeral home. The ambulance is air conditioned and equipped with oxygen and a two-way radio. It supplements the recently installed Cadillac ambulance, which is similarly equipped, owned by the funeral home.

throughout the county amounted to $2,323.25. In all there were 781 prisoners incarcerated in the jail.

Of this total, 628 were men, 45 women, 92 boys and 16 girls. The average stay of each prisoner in jail was 13 days. The average daily prisoner population was 28 during the entire year.

There were 30,747 meals served during the year. Cost of feeding prisoners in 1964 was $11,230.22 or $1.09 to feed each prisoner daily.

In addition to his regular duties, Sheriff Spangler gave numerous talks to local youth groups regarding safety. Many tours of the jail were conducted during the year.

Long Way from Elko

ELKO, Nev. (AP)—Soviet authorities sent official word from Moscow this fall of the death of a defector.

Don Lewis, manager of the Ruby Valley Wildlife Refuge in Elko County, was notified that a pintail duck he banded four years ago had been shot in Eastern Russia.

The letter from A. Vinokurov, chief of the bird ringing center, in Moscow, added the duck was shot in May of 1962.

Lewis said he had no idea why it took the Soviet authorities two years to notify him of the shooting.

Sheriff's Office Handles Heavy Work Load in 1964

Former Pickaway County Sheriff Walton W. Spangler has completed a recap of his activities in office during 1964.

Spangler's four-year term in office was capped with the investigation of four murders committed during his last month as sheriff.

Two of these murders were committed by a man who later committed suicide. Spangler pointed out that this brought the case to a quick conclusion.

Facing accusations of the other two homicides is Daniel Ealey, who is now being held in the Pickaway County Jail. He is due for arraignment Jan. 20.

DURING 1964 the department investigated seven suicides. Four of them occurred during the last two months of the year. The department investigated six accidental gunshot wounds and hunting accidents.

An airplane accident in Salt-creek Twp. that claimed the lives of two Lockbourne stationed airmen was initially investigated by the local department.

Spangler noted that 28 burglaries, a reduction of one-third over 1963, were probed by the department. A total of 97 thefts, a reduction of 9 per cent over the previous year, were investigated.

Stolen property recovered by the department amounted to $20,170 during the year.

Three people were killed and 206 people were injured in the 371 accidents investigated by the department. Damage to cars and private property was estimated at $176,451. There were 205 wrecker calls and 90 ambulance summons.

THE FOUR cars operated by the department were driven 153,830 miles which included two out-of-state trips. One of the jaunts was to Tennessee to bring back a local juvenile girl and the other to Gallup, N.M., to return a man.

The recap of the year's activities noted that 25 blood runs were made to Berger and surrounding hospitals.

A total of 1,862 papers were served by the department and $4,155.86 in fees were collected.

Fees for boarding prisoners for the city and villages

Business Briefs

A new, 1965 Mercury Ambulance has been purchased through Circleville Motors by the Defenbaugh Funeral home. The ambulance is air conditioned and equipped with oxygen and a two-way radio. It supplements the recently installed Cadillac ambulance, which is similarly equipped, owned by the funeral home.

throughout the county amounted to $2,323.25. In all there were 781 prisoners incarcerated in the jail.

Of this total, 628 were men, 45 women, 92 boys and 16 girls. The average stay of each prisoner in jail was 13 days. The average daily prisoner population was 28 during the entire year.

There were 30,747 meals served during the year. Cost of feeding prisoners in 1964 was $11,230.22 or $1.09 to feed each prisoner daily.

In addition to his regular duties, Sheriff Spangler gave numerous talks to local youth groups regarding safety. Many tours of the jail were conducted during the year.

Long Way from Elko

ELKO, Nev. (AP) — Soviet authorities sent official word from Moscow this fall of the death of a defector.

Don Lewis, manager of the Ruby Valley Wildlife Refuge in Elko County, was notified that a pintail duck he banded four years ago had been shot in Eastern Russia.

The letter from A. Vinokurov, chief of the bird ringing center, in Moscow, added the duck was shot in May of 1962.

Lewis said he had no idea why it took the Soviet authorities two years to notify him of the shooting.

Wave of Stranglings in Boston Gives Way to Gang Warfare

BOSTON (AP) — The wave of mysterious stranglings, which ended exactly one year ago with 11 victims, has given way to Greater Boston to a new terror-gang warfare of major proportions.

Fifteen men have been killed in gangland fashion and at least a half-dozen others have been wounded.

The strange victims — all women — were killed in an 18-month period from June 14, 1962 to Jan. 4, 1964.

The 13 men were killed in 10 months, the most recent last Dec. 28. None of the slayings has been solved.

Death came to the 15 in underworld fashion, the most recent on Jan. 10. Arrests have been made only in one of the slayings.

Boston Police Commissioner

Edmund McNamara said "in killings of this type, where vengeance may be part of the motive, one usually leads to another. There's no telling how many more there will be or who'll be next."

"And these are the tough ones to solve. Whenever ruthless men are involved, as in these cases, nobody knows anything. Nobody sees anything. Nobody hears anything," he says.

McNamara says most of the killings took place in Boston suburbs, "but were the ones who hear the critical outcries of the citizens."

The Boston Police Department serves as clearing house for the half-dozen communities involved in the investigations.

Deputy Commissioner Herbert F. Mulloney says the slayings can be traced to three hoodlum elements: rivalry between a Boston gang and a Somerville area mob; loan sharks; and tail-gaters who rob from open trucks.

"We think that sometimes a killing is to show personal strength. One gang wants to show another that it is strong so they kill a member of the rival gang," Mulloney said.

One source said investigation is under way to determine if one of the attempted killings involve a payoff to a man who knows the robbers who got away with $1,551,277 from a mail truck in Plymouth, Mass., in August 1962. The man reportedly demanded $50,000 in hush money and already had collected $25,000.

The unsolved mail truck robbery still stands as the biggest cash robbery in U.S. history, topping the $1,219,000 robbery of the Boston headquarters of Brink's 12 years earlier.

Most of the men killed had police records.

One who didn't was the first one killed in the long outbreak, William J. Sheridan, 21, of Boston, shot in the head from ambush on a Roxbury section sidewalk last March.

The man sought for that killing is on the FBI's list of the 10 most-wanted men, George P. McLaughlin.

A brother, Edward McLaughlin, 43, was hit in the face and chest with a shotgun blast last November. After his discharge from a hospital he went into hiding.

Still another brother, Bernard McLaughlin, was shot and killed at midday on a busy square near the Boston waterfront four years ago.

Less than two months after the Sheridan killing, Francis Benjamin, 32, of Boston, was found decapitated in the trunk of a stolen car abandoned in South Boston.

A week later, the body of Russell C. Nicholson, 33, was found with two bullet holes in the head in suburban Wilmington woods. He was a policeman who resigned in the face of charges of association with known criminals.

On July 23, a sniffing dog led to the discovery of the bodies of Paul J. Collier, 39, and Vince A. Bisesi, 40, both of Providence, R.I., in the trunk of a car parked at a Quincy motel. Both had been shot.

A month later, Harold A. Hannon, 54, of Everett and Wilfred T. Delaney, 27, of South Boston, were found dead in Boston harbor, their bodies trussed with baling wire. Hannon had been beaten and strangled. Delaney was thrown in alive and drowned.

There were three killings in September.

Leo C. Lowry, 37, of South Boston, was shot twice in the head and his throat was slashed. His body was found in a woods in Penbrooke.

Ronald P. Dermody, 32, of Somerville, was shot three times in the head and his body left in a parked car in Watertown.

Carlton Eaton, 23, of Weymouth, who had been questioned in the deaths of Hannon and Delaney, was shot twice in the head in his own car. His body found in the car parked on a quiet side street near Route 1 in Malden.

Anthony Sacramone, 22, a former boxer, was killed in a case of mistaken identity. Police said he was shot in the head and stabbed outside an Evert housing project — killed by men who apparently were looking for a man with the same name recently released from state prison.

The body of Edward P. Huber, 43, of Boston, described by police as a "small-time burglar," was found late in November in a brook in suburban Hingham.

Just after Christmas, George E. Ash, 43, of Boston, only recently freed after serving a jail term in connection with a murder, was found slain in his sister-in-law's car parked across the street from a church in Boston's South End. He had been shot in the head and stabbed more than 50 times in the back.

The body of John F. Murray, 38, described by police as a small-time hoodlum, was found with a bullet wound in the head in a vacant lot in Boston's Dorchester District on Jan. 10.

He had been paroled from Massachusetts State Prison last July after serving five years for breaking and entering.

Arrests have been made only in the slaying of William Treannie, 23, whose hacked up body was found in three suitcases in a Boston vacant lot last Nov. 13.

One of the men charged with Treannie's slaying is William Murray, 35, of Boston, brother of John F. Murray, found slain Jan. 10. Also charged is Robert Cook, 38, who lived with Treannie.

Ohio Passes Civil Rights Resolution

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Board of Education has approved a civil rights resolution which will give Ohio school districts $17 million more in federal money this year.

To comply with the 1964 Civil Rights Law, the board Monday approved the resolution saying that federal money received from 11 programs would be given only to school districts which agree to anti-discrimination stipulations.

Board member Robert A. Manchester of Canfield, who voted with the other 22 members, decried the stipulation attached to the money.

"It's a sad day when the federal government wraps a web of control around us," he said.

But board member Edward C. Ames of Toledo said the board "is not committing itself to anything beyond which we are already committed under the Ohio Constitution."

Supt. E. E. Holt said that under the new law no new contracts for federal funds will be made until local school boards which wish to receive money have passed similar resolutions.

Holt predicted that section of the Civil Rights Law will be a "very significant step in the civil rights movement."

Johnsons Await Passel of Kinfolk

WASHINGTON (AP) —It will be full house at 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue next week with a passel of kinfolk and friends expected at the White House for President Johnson's inauguration.

Names of the 20 guests, mostly close relatives, will be announced later, the White House said Monday night. President Johnson's brother, Sam Houston Johnson, will probably be among them. But cousin Orville Bailey, who has not been well, is not coming.

Mrs. Johnson solved one problem caused by different schedules on inauguration day next Wednesday by arranging to feed her house guests at a continuing buffet table.

NICENESS BOSS—New State Department protocol chief will be attorney Lloyd N. Hand, 35, shown in his Los Angeles office. He will succeed Angier Biddle Duke, 49, who will be named to "an important ambassadorial post." Hand was a Lyndon Johnson aide from 1957 thru 1961.

Gay Afternoon Life
RENO, Nev. (AP) — There's one Reno chorus line which doesn't get to see much of the gay night life.

The line is composed of six 10-year-old school girls who specialize in the can-can.

The fifth graders, trained by former chorus girl Carol Allen, perform for fashion shows and women's benefits — in the afternoons.

WIDOW IN COLLEGE—Enrolled in the University of Michigan English Language Institute in Ann Arbor, Marina Oswald, widow of the late President Kennedy, sits in a classroom. The eight-week course specializes in teaching English as a foreign language. She is Russian-born.

Here's Panorama Of Life in U.S.

EDITOR'S NOTE — The United States regrettably lifts a Bamboo Curtain in Georgia, a bachelor governor out of the kitchen, a complaint of scrambled fish eggs, and Seattle's complaint against the weather are facets of the American scene this week.

PIERRE, S.D. (AP) — This prairie state has its first bachelor governor. At the moment, the only companion of 51-year-old Nils A. Boe in the box-like, two-story governor's mansion is his pet beagle.

Boe is a Republican. The dog, Beagle Boe, was presented to him after a term as House speaker in 1955, long before the breed attained Democratic distinction in the White House.

Boe, a Sioux Falls attorney looks forward to the state's "first family" chores without concern. He's getting a housekeeper to do his cooking, make the beds, and keep the governor's mansion tidy. And on state occasions which call for a First Lady, the husky Norwegian governor has three sisters on whom he can call.

Boe, a 6-footer with thinning blond hair, did much of his own cooking and grocery shopping in private life. Friends speak highly of his pancakes and of Boe's own favorite recipe, a beef-vegetable soup-stew. The chief executive comments: "I haven't starved."

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — The federal government is going out of the bamboo business. For more than 45 years, the government has grown bamboo on an unusual farm near Savannah.

While many would like to know how to rid their property of bamboo, the government has been trying to find the best way to grow it.

Under ideal conditions, they

ENVOY TO U.S. — Great Britain's Sir Patrick Dean, shown in the Foreign Office in London, becomes ambassador to the U.S. He was representative to the U.N. He succeeds Lord Harlech.

grow it at the rate of a foot a day.

The U.S. Plant Introduction Station, as the farm is named officially, is being phased out as an economy measure.

"We were on the verge of a major breakthrough in fertilization and harvesting from the cultural standpoint," said Walter O. Hawley, director of the farm.

"We believe that bamboo is an untouched source of pulp for the manufacture of paper, but now look at what has happened."

Although bamboo was the major project, the experiment station also dealt with other crops.

CORNWALL, N.Y. (AP) — For many months, a high-voltage controversy has crackled around the proposal by New York's Consolidated Edison Co. to build a $162-million hydroelectric project near this Hudson River community.

Opponents say the dam would mar the natural beauty of the river scene, 40 miles north of New York City. Proponents minimize this and cite economic benefits.

Now fishermen, represented by several Long Island groups, have waded into the fray, petitioning the Federal Power Commission to reconsider its preliminary approval of the undertaking and reopen public hearings.

They argue the project would threaten the supply of striped bass and other fish, sports and commercial, in waters from Cape May, N.J., to Cape Cod, Mass.

Said a spokesman for the petitioners: "The new plant will produce not only electricity, but a whole lot of scrambled fish eggs."

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — Although Seattle is farther north than Minneapolis, on a level with the Maine woods, Seattle's winters are usually wet and mild because of the warming effect of Pacific Ocean currents.

But this year the weather has declined to follow the script, and the Pacific Northwest and British Columbia across the Canadian border have drawn much of the weather from the Canadian arctic.

As a result, in Seattle, where snow is a rarity, a record 7.8 inches fell in December. The temperature dropped to 19 above, another record for the month, on Dec. 16, and stayed below the freezing point for three days.

Annoyed Seattleites also found: 5,000 people turned away from an ice show matinee because the skaters' train was blocked by a snowslide, frozen pipes forcing the shutdown of the fountain in front of the public library, a shutdown of the restaurant atop the 600-foot space needle at the 1962 World's Fair grounds when a burst pipe coated emergency exit steps with ice.

This winter has been different in Seattle.

Ohio House Dems Name Policy Panel

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Rep. A. G. Lancione, D - Belmont, House minority leader, announced Tuesday the appointment of a 13 - member policy committee to help determine the party program in the house during the current legislative session.

"It is most important, Lancione said, "since the state is controlled by the GOP, that a vigilant working minority can assure Ohio citizens of a sound and beneficial legislative program."

Members of the committee, which Lancione heads, include these veteran representatives:

Douglas Applegate, Jefferson County; Wray Bevins, Lake; Maruce C. Brown, Lorain; Richard Christiansen, Richland; Bernice MacKenzie, Stark; Harry H. McIlwain, Hamilton; Frank Pokorny, Cuyahoga; Verlan Riffe, Scioto; Robert L. Roderer, Montgomery; Mryl H. Shoemaker, Ross; George Pablack, Mahoning; Thomas L. Thomas, Sunnit, and Marigene Valiquette, Lucas County.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Today is Wednesday, Jan. 13, the 13th day of 1965. There are 352 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1733, James Oglethorpe and about 130 new colonists landed at Charles Towne—now Charleston, S.C.

On this date: In 1813, Horatio Alger, whose rags to riches stories set a pattern of life for American youth, was born at Revere, Mass.

In 1864, composer Stephen Foster died in New York.

In 1935, the residents of the Saar Territory voted to return to Germany.

In 1942, Donald Nelson was named chairman of the War Production Board.

Ten years ago — President Dwight D. Eisenhower asked Congress for an extension of the Selective Service System.

Five years ago—Antoine Pinay, largely credited with France's postwar economic recovery, resigned from the cabinet.

One year ago — President Johnson sent Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy to Indonesia to discuss with President Sukarno his nation's hostility to Malaysia.

Liquor Sales in Ohio Reach All-Time High

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Liquor Director Donald D. Cook reports that Ohio's annual liquor sales went over the $240 million mark last year for the first time in history.

Cook said Tuesday that liquor sales for 1964 showed a 5.32 per cent gain. Total sales reached $240,134,783, an increase of $12,59,877 over the 1963 total.

During a railroad rate war in the mid-1880s, the fare from Kansas City to Los Angeles dropped to just $1.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dean Burch's decision to quit as chairman of the Republican National Committee April 1 is a major defeat for former Sen. Barry Goldwater. But it made some other things clear, too.

Goldwaterites will not run the Republican party; Goldwater is definitely not its leader any longer; Republican governors and former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon charted the road for Burch's exit.

Many if not most Republicans would have felt Goldwater controlled the party chairman so long as the 37-year-old Burch remained as chairman. He had been the senator's loyal lieutenant for years and had been handpicked by him as party chairman for a four-year term. After his disastrous defeat by President Johnson last November Goldwater said he didn't consider himself the party leader but nevertheless he put his position of influence in the party on the line by his defense of Burch.

First, he defied the Republicans who wanted to get rid of Burch. "They are not going to throw Burch out," he said. Burch could have been retained or fired by the 132-man National Committee which meets in Chicago Jan. 22-23.

But Goldwater went further, clearly making himself, not Burch, the main issue in the fight over the chairmanship. He said the firing of Burch would be a "repudiation of me."

The cries of "Burch must go" began shortly after the November election. Burch didn't accept this and began to fight to retain his job, at least to the extent of polling committee members to see how much support he had.

His prospects began to dim by early December when Republican governors called for an overhaul of the National Committee and, without mentioning

Burch by name, said the National Committee should "adopt leadership which clearly represents a broad view of republicanism."

A number of the governors, but not all, said this was aimed at Burch. That was Dec. 5. Four days later Goldwater went to New York to confer with Eisenhower and Nixon.

The three agreed Republican unity could be achieved if opposing factions gave a little ground, meaning if they were willing to compromise a bit on their differences.

Then Nixon talked to newsmen, "We feel," he said, referring to Eisenhower, "and Sen. Goldwater agrees that the national chairman must have broad-based support." This is what the governors had said.

Nixon said unanimity was not necessary but a majority of one wasn't enough to prove Burch had broad backing. He said Burch's polls showed he had a backing of a majority on the committee.

Then Nixon said it was up to Goldwater and Burch to develop the broad-based support if they could.

Later in December Goldwater wrote the committee members to say he would be glad to recommend Burch's replacement if it would help unify the party and that he had never rejected any compromise.

But he added: "I cannot see that the ouster of Mr. Burch would constitute a compromise." Instead, he said, he felt it would be a surrender by those Republicans who had supported him.

Then Burch wrote all 132 committee members, saying his resignation had been called for on the grounds that he was a "symbol" of Goldwater and the "so-called conservative faction" of the party.

"If this is true," he added, "then my resignation under pressure at this time would clearly be interpreted as a repudiation by the Republican party of all those voters who identified themselves with responsible conservative Republicanism."

But Goldwater and Burch finally, after a nose-count, concluded that while Burch could win a vote of confidence from the committee it would not be big enough to provide a mandate — which is another way of saying the broad-based support mentioned by Eisenhower and Nixon.

So, with Goldwater standing beside him, Burch said Tuesday he would quit in April to make way for Ray Bliss, Ohio's Republican chairman.

Why Burch wants to wait until April, instead of stepping aside when the committee meets this month, can hardly be interpreted as anything but a face-saving device. But the returns are plain enough: Goldwater and Burch lost.

Immigration

It would eliminate an old provision — the so-called "Asian-Pacific triangle" — that discriminates against persons of Asian ancestry by forcing them to apply under the quota of their country of ancestry even if they have lived for generations in a non-Asian nation.

The provision would be abolished immediately — even though the new bill would prescribe gradual elimination of the whole quota system over five years.

The Kennedy immigration bill was sent to Congress in July 1963. It underwent Senate and House Judiciary Committee hearings but never came to a vote in either house.

The Johnson bill, following its guidelines, would set at about 165,000 the maximum quota immigrants each year. No country could account for more than 10 per cent of the total. But the President could reserve 30 per cent of the total numbers for distribution to Allied nations who currently send more immigrants than the 10 per cent would allow. He could reserve 10 per cent more for refugees.

If a national fails to use all of its 10 per cent, its extra spaces would be reassigned to another nation. Great Britain, for example, uses only about 32,000 of its annual assignment of 83,000 under the present system.

As under the 1924 law, first preference would go to those with the most to offer the United States. But instead of limiting this preference to those with "urgently needed" skills, as under the present law, it would be broadened to include those whose immigration would be "especially advantageous" to U.S. economy and culture.

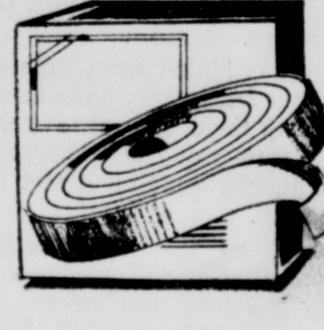

Parents of U.S. citizens would no longer be subject to quota limitations. Parents of aliens who live in the United States would fall into a fourth preference class; they currently are given no preference. Second preference would continue to go to unmarried children of U.S. citizens, third preference to spouses and children of aliens in the United States.

The new bill would abolish the ban against the mentally retarded or aliens with histories of mental illness. Such persons could be admitted if they are close relatives of U.S. citizens or aliens previously admitted.

The law also would eliminate the requirement that aliens seeking first preference already have jobs lined up in this country. And it would grant partial preference for the first time to aliens who could fill certain labor shortages here. The old law requires immigrants seeking preference because of their skills to meet rigorous standards as specialists.

The old bill was designed to maintain the racial and ethnic balance of the U.S. population — as it was in 1920.

Probate Court Handles 789 Cases in 1964

Pickaway County Probate Court's annual report released today disclosed 789 cases were handled during 1964.

Bulk of the total cases was 166 estates processed by the court, the issuance of 241 marriage licenses and 109 applications to probate last wills and testaments.

Eighteen guardianships and two trusts were handled during the year. There were 34 affidavits issued to commit mentally ill persons to institutions. However, 10 of the total were received from the previous year.

Child adoptions for the year totaled 21 and two persons officially had their names changed.

Other cases handled by the court during 1964 included the recording of one physician's license and 14 ministers' licenses; five minister's licenses were issued; inheritance tax only, 3; delayed birth registrations, 60; delayed birth corrections, 18; legitimizations, 2; settlement of minors' claims, 6; designation of heirs, 2; authenticated foreign wills, 5; sale real estate proceedings, 36; action of surviving spouse to purchase real estate, 5; declaratory judgments, 3; transcripts of foreign real estate proceedings, 2 and adult settlement of claims, 2.

Looked Like Smoke
RENO (AP) — Where there's smoke there's fire. But this time it turned out to be water.

The Nevada Division of Forestry got a report of a possible range fire in the hills southeast of Reno. When fire officials checked the report, they found a geyser of water instead.

A pipeline between Carson City and Virginia City had sprung a leak and water was spraying as much as 100 feet in the air, resembling smoke.

Turmoil Seen In Even-Split State Senate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The even split between Democrats and Republicans in the Ohio Senate has shown new evidence it will bring incalculable legislative turmoil when members of the Legislature return Feb. 1 after a two-week recess.

It came Tuesday in the upper chamber when Republicans who were able to organize the Senate only with the help of Republican Lt. Gov. John W. Brown, rammed through a resolution re-hiring veteran clerk Thomas Bateman at an increased salary of $15,000 a year.

Democrats, led by minority leader Frank W. King, D-Lucas, challenged the 16-7 vote which retained Bateman and boosted his salary by $2,500 a year.

King asserted 17 votes, or a majority of the 32-member Senate were needed to approve patronage resolutions but was overruled by Brown, the Senate's presiding officer, who said all that was required was a majority of those voting.

Republicans then upheld Brown's ruling as Democratic maneuvering gave the lieutenant governor no chance to cast the tie-breaking vote he was given by an act of the special legislative session which ended only six days before the one began.

King has hinted from time to time that Democrats have some tricks up their sleeve to keep Brown from using his tie-breaking authority pending a test in the courts.

Brown, on the other hand, has said that he will use the authority the first time he has a chance although the bill that gave it to him does not become effective until March 29.

One obvious Democratic maneuver would be to have one or more members absent on roll calls which would cancel the possibility of a tie and leave Republicans short of the 17 votes needed to pass legislation.

GOP senators conceivably could counter this move with a seldom-used Senate rule requiring attendance at floor sessions, except for good cause, and authorizing the use of the State Highway Patrol to escort members to the chambers.

The Senate power struggle also seems to have figured in the delay of committee assignments which must come before the introduction of bills. Majority leader Theodore M. Gray, R-Miami, said the assignments will be announced when the lawmakers return in two weeks.

Over in the House, where committee assignments were announced Jan. 5, representatives already have received 34 bills and 9 resolutions for constitutional amendments.

Among 15 bills received Tuesday was one by three Cuyahoga County Democrats to require or allow boards of education to provide bus transportation for parochial and private school students as well as those in public schools.

The sponsors, Reps. Joseph J. Horvath, Anthony J. Russo, and Anthony O. Calabrese Jr., claimed the measure "allows" school boards to provide such service but other representatives argued it would require it.

Among other new House bills was a measure by Rep. Terry E. Drake, R-Crawford, to boost the size of the Ohio Highway Patrol from 800 to 1,100 over a two-year period. It also would do away with the patrol's five-year residency requirement for new patrolmen and lower the maximum recruitment age from 35 to 30.

Bliss Is Stickler For Party Unity

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio Republican Chairman Ray C. Bliss, who may become the party's new national chairman, has risen to the top chain smoking, organizing and enforcing one rule: Party unity.

After the November election, Bliss set his theme:

"This is the time for responsible Republican Party leaders to join together... it is not the time to engage in second guessing or chanting about what might have been."

The unity theme may just propel Bliss into the chairman's post now held by the embattled Dean Burch.

A graying, spectacled politician who began as a party handyman 33 years ago, Bliss is blunt, cautious, almost shy and wary—especially of the press.

He avoids newsmen regularly by the simple expedient of not being around.

His announcement Monday night that he would accept the national chairmanship only if former Sen. Barry Goldwater asked him to do so was made in typical Bliss fashion.

He sent a messenger around with the news. Then Bliss disappeared.

His name has been mentioned as possibility for national chairman as far back as 1957.

Bliss then declined to seek the job actively—a practice he is still following.

Now 55, Bliss did not wed until he was 51. He married a schoolteacher, Ellen Frances Palmer, in Akron, where he has an insurance business.

Ten years earlier, Bliss became Ohio state chairman as Republicans looked for somebody to pick up the pieces after Harry Truman won the state in 1948.

Bliss set up a strong, financially healthy party and didn't lose the state in a presidential year until last November.

A tough organizer, Bliss disenchants the less faithful.

"He can't make a speech, you can never find him, about all he does is get people to put the arm on you for money," said one.

Bliss was not a pre-convention Goldwater booster, but he kept the state neutral. After Republican National Convention he supported Goldwater and campaigned with him in spite of gout pains.

A national committeeman, Bliss will have one of the 130 votes when Republicans convene in Chicago Jan. 22-23. He is sure to cast it for party unity, which in this case, may just be a fellow named Ray C. Bliss.

Manuel told police he had gone to Detroit to look for a job. He said he stayed with his mother who lives in the same area as the victim.

Police said Manuel told them he saw the girl, who had the mentality of a five-year-old, last Thursday night on the street and went with her to the park.

Officers said they were told Manuel and the girl were sitting on a bench listening to her transistor radio when the youth became enraged.

"The next thing I knew, I was stabbing her," police said he told them.

Manuel reportedly told the officers he tried to rape the girl after she was dead but did not succeed.

nual sessions of the Legislature, proposal that died in the special session.

They would require a change in the constitution—with voter approval—in provisions now setting legislative sessions every two years. Sponsors of the resolutions are Reps. Myrl Shoemaker, D-Ross; Mary E. McGowan, D-Summit, and Bernice MacKenzie, D-Stark along with John C. McDonald, D-Licking, jointly.

Miss McGowan offered a second amendment resolution which would permit a $5,000 property tax exemption for persons 65 or over living in their homes.

House minority leader A. G. Lancione, D - Belmont, announced the formation of a 13-member committee of experienced House Democrats to engineer Democratic policy in that chamber. Lancione will head the committee.

Ohio Republican Leaders Are All-Bliss-ful Now

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Republican leaders in Ohio, including a man often mentioned for the post, appeared pleased today with the reported selection of Ray C. Bliss for national chairman of the party.

The 57-year-old Bliss, state chairman for 16 years, won the praise Tuesday of former Congressman-at-large Robert Taft Jr.

"I have worked with him for a very long time. I think he will be very good for the party," Taft said from his Cincinnati home.

"I doubt it very much," he added, "if many conservatives will leave the GOP as the result of Burch's replacement."

National chairman Dean Burch announced in Phoenix, Ariz., that he would step down on April 1, paving the way for Bliss to take over.

Taft, who had been mentioned for the national chairmanship after his bid for election to the Senate was defeated last fall, said no one in a position of power in the Republican Party approached him about the job.

"And I believe I made it very clear I had no aspirations for the post," Taft added.

Gov. James A. Rhodes gave his blessing to the reported selection of Bliss.

"Mr. Bliss is a deliberate and very competent person who has been highly successful in the state of Ohio," the governor said.

"I am sure that he will display the same successful stewardship at the national level that he has shown in Ohio."

"Ohio Republicans have been most fortunate to have the leadership of Mr. Bliss. Certainly they will wish him well in his new endeavor."

Former U. S. Senator and ex-governor John W. Bricker said "I think it is a fine move and Ray Bliss will bring to the Republican National Committee an organizational ability that no one else could have provided. He represents the very best in

Filling Up Hawaii
HONOLULU (AP) — Hawaii as a place to live rather than to visit is becoming more popular. During the third quarter of 1964, new residents totaled 7,960 — a record in the 14 years the statistics have been compiled. During the first nine months of this year, 18,475 people settled permanently in Hawaii. And the Bureau of Planning and Economic Development notes males outnumbered females by 10 per cent "thus contributing further to Hawaii's surplus of unattached men."

SNEEZING IN RESPONSE TO LIGHT

Q. I have a tendency to sneeze when suddenly exposed to bright light. Is there a medical explanation for this "allergy" to light?

A. This reaction to bright light is by no means an allergy. Sneezing in response to light is a type of reflex action which is more common than might be expected. Among hospital patients questioned, better than 15 per cent of white patients had observed the reaction in themselves. In contrast, the reaction was not observed by colored persons. The attitude of persons being questioned about the photic (response to light) sneeze is of interest. Many who have never experienced the reflex reacted to questioning in a surprised way, as much as to say, "Are you crazy or something?" Conversely, one woman who was questioned said, "Why, I thought everyone did."

FLAT FEET AND HEREDITY

Q. Is the tendency toward flat feet passed along from one generation to another?

A. It seems to be. The majority of children with flat feet have the deformity as a result of generalized laxity of ligaments which normally support the arch. It is not unusual to find that one or both parents of such children also have this condition.

CHS Tigers Host McClain, Gales On Weekend Card

TWO TIGERS — Ronnie Seward (left) moved into the starting lineup for Circleville last week against Franklin Heights. Doug Price (right) has played a key reserve role all season for the Tigers. Both are seniors.

The Circleville High School basketball team has a two night home stand scheduled this weekend, hosting Greenfield in a South Central Ohio League battle Friday and Lancaster in a non-loop tilt Saturday.

Last week the Tigers were the victims of the Washington C. H. teams best performance of the year which dropped them to a 2-2 conference record. Overall, Circleville has won four while losing five.

A win Friday will even Circleville's overall record and strengthen their position in the SCO. The McClain cagers won their first league game last Friday by defeating Hillsboro. Overall they have a 2-6 record.

Schollander Voted as Top 1964 Athlete

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Don Schollander, a good looking young athlete who dominated the 1964 Olympic swimming competition as no one ever had done before, was chosen today Male Athlete of the Year by more than 250 sports writers and broadcasters participating in the annual Associated Press year-end poll.

At Tokyo, Schollander won four Olympic swimming gold medals — something that never had been done previously. He participated in three world record performances. And he bore up well under the same kind of adulation from Japanese feminine fans that the Beatles enjoyed in the United States.

The voting in The AP poll was even more one-sided than some of Schollander's swimming victories. The youngster from Lake Oswego, Ore., was named first on 138 ballots and polled a total of 459 points on a 3-2-1 basis for first, second and third choices.

Johnny Unitas, the veteran Baltimore Colts quarterback who was instrumental to leading his team to the Western Conference championship in the National Football League, placed second in the voting with 14 firsts and 134 points. Dean Chance of the Los Angeles Angels, winner of the Cy Young Trophy as outstanding major league pitcher of the year, was third with seven firsts and 109 points.

McKinley Quits U.S. Tennis Team

NEW YORK (AP) — Chuck McKinley's decision to swap his tennis racket for an attaché case won't help America's dim prospects for recapturing the Davis Cup in 1965 but it may speed the development of future U.S. Cup stars.

McKinley, 24, announced his semi-retirement from major tournament competition Tuesday after taking a job with a New York brokerage firm.

The development, a blow to U.S. hopes of taking back the Davis Cup after losing it to Australia last year, gave 21-year-old Arthur Ashe, Jr., and 22-year-old Frank Froehling III the inside track to McKinley's No. 2 spot on the U.S. squad behind Dennis Ralston, the Bakersfield, Calif., youngster who has replaced Chuck atop the national rankings.

Packers Sign Up Another Kicker

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — The Green Bay Packers have acquired kicking specialist Don Chandler, and in so doing raised the question of whether they were putting pressure on National Football League glamor boy Paul Hornung or getting him some help.

There was no answer from Packer Coach Vince Lombardi, who could not be reached for comment. But from his past statements it would appear that Green Bay will have the services next season of both Chandler and Hornung, who had costly kicking troubles in the past campaign.

It was missed extra points or field goals by Hornung that made the difference in three of five defeats suffered by the Packers, who finished in a second-place tie in the Western Division.

Although beaten three times this season, Syracuse scored in double figures in all 10 football games.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Canton McKinley's Bulldogs, who have threatened to win Ohio's high school basketball championship a score of times without success, were rated the state's top cage quintet today in the opening Associated Press poll.

Bob Rupert's Stark County powerhouse hits the heights the hard way, defeating Massillon on the Bulldog boards last Friday by 62-53. It was the first McKinley win over the Tigers on Canton's floor since February of 1962.

The McKinley uniforms were stolen from a cleaning establishment the day before the game, so the Bulldogs showed up in the reserve team's outfits. It was red-hot game, and in the third quarter an irate fan attacked referee Bill Paulosio of Weirton, W. Va., with little damage being done.

Clay To Receive Physical Checkup

BOSTON (AP) — Cassius Clay visits the doctor today to determine if he has recovered sufficiently from a recent hernia operation to resume activities as heavyweight boxing champion of the world.

Clay told newsmen Tuesday he thinks he is well enough to resume light training but he wants permission from his doctor, William McDermott.

Clay underwent surgery Nov. 13, three days before he was to have fought Sonny Liston in a return title match at Boston. Clay won the championship from Liston in Miami earlier in the year.

No new date was set for the postponed fight because of the variations in recuperation from such surgery.

11th All-Star Tilt Faces Bob Pettit

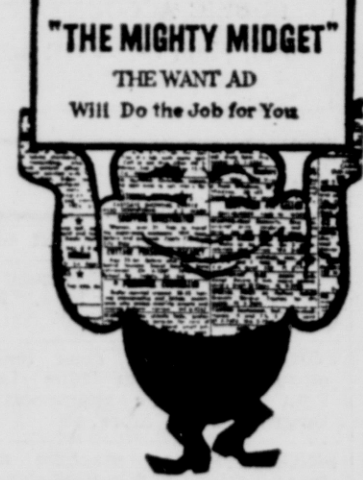

ST. LOUIS (AP) — On the eve of his 11th and possibly his last National Basketball Association All-Star game, Bob Pettit of the St. Louis Hawks tried to recall his first one.

"We lost, I think," he said. The game was played in New York in 1955. He was right. The score was East 100, West 91.

Pettit, now 32, has played in all 10 All-Star games since he came into the league.

In the starting line-up with Pettit on the West squad will be Wilt Chamberlain of San Francisco, Baylor and Jerry West of Los Angeles and Len Wilkens of the Hawks.

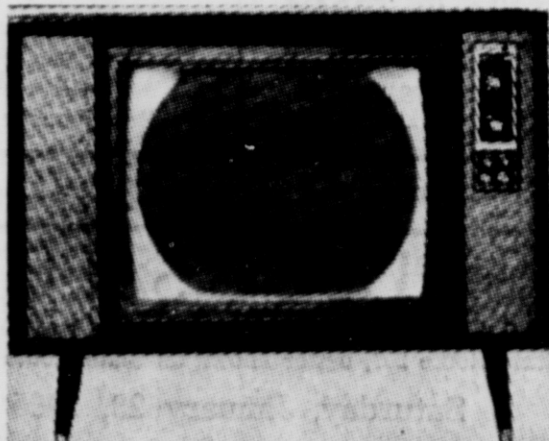

The East will open with Bill Russell, Tom Heinsohn and Sam Jones of Boston and Jerry Lucas and Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati.

CHS Tigers Host McClain, Gales On Weekend Card

TWO TIGERS — Ronnie Seward (left) moved into the starting lineup for Circleville last week against Franklin Heights. Doug Price (right) has played a key reserve role all season for the Tigers. Both are seniors.

The Circleville High School basketball team has a two night home stand scheduled this weekend, hosting Greenfield in a South Central Ohio League battle Friday and Lancaster in a non-loop tilt Saturday.

Last week the Tigers were the victims of the Washington C. H. teams best performance of the year which dropped them to a 2-2 conference record. Overall, Circleville has won four while losing five.

A win Friday will even Circleville's overall record and strengthen their position in the SCO. The McClain cagers won their first league game last Friday by defeating Hillsboro. Overall they have a 2-6 record.

ALTHOUGH near the bottom of the league standings, the McClain Tigers have the second leading scorer in loop play in Ralph Nooks. The senior forward has tallied 75 points against other league teams to rank second to Gary Knisley who has 81 league points.

Mike Smith of Wilmington moved into third place in the scoring race with 67 total points.

John Thomas and Chet Iery of CHS who were second and third in loop scoring last week, are now fourth and fifth with 66 and 62 points respectively. Teammate John Maxwell has sixth spot with 58 league points.

Other members of the top 10 scorers are Larry Mowery, WCH, with 57 points, Ray Joslin WCH, 52, Tom Town-

Sophomores Set Pace in Duke Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There are a lot of new faces in college basketball this season with a fine crop of sophomores.

Bob Verga, a six-footer from Sea Girt, N.J., and Bob Riedy, 6-foot-6 from Allentown, Pa., are two of the best making good in varsity competition at Duke.

They sparked the 10th-ranked Blue Devils to a 106-81 victory over Clemson Tuesday night in one of the top games of a slim national program.

Verga threw in 29 points and Riedy added 19 in addition to effective work on rebounds as the Blue Devils rebounded from their Saturday night defeat by North Carolina to tie for the lead in the Atlantic Coast Conference with Wake Forest.

The game, at Duke Indoor Stadium, was one of two involving teams in The Associated Press top ten. The ninth-ranked San Francisco Dons also won easily on their home court, 86-59 over Portland.

Joe Ellis' three baskets from long range and three steals sparked the Dons to a 15-0 outburst midway in the second half that broke the game wide open against the Pilots.

Cincinnati downed Dayton 76-65, Boston College edged Rhode Island 107-105, Wake Forest crushed Georgia Tech 97-78, Yale beat Brown 87-55 and Arkansas thumped Rice 79-61 in other games.

Cincinnati, playing at home, was down 12 points to Dayton at halftime. Led by Ken Cunningham and Ron Rolfe, the Bearcats rallied to tie at 44-44 and then went on a 16-point spree that sewed things up. Rolfe got 26 points and Cunningham 19.

Wake Forest also chalked up a triumph away from home by defeating Georgia Tech at Atlanta behind Bob Leonard's 29 points and Richard Herring's 20.

Virginia Tech and Connecticut both won on the road in other games. VPI downed William and Mary 87-75 at Williamsburg, Va., and Connecticut whipped New Hampshire 82-62 at Durham, N.H.

Howard Seen As Help to Nat Problem

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Frank Howard probably is stuck with his problem unless he can help the Washington Senators solve theirs.

"The trouble is that when you're as big as I am," the 6-foot-7, 250-pound outfielder told newsmen Tuesday after signing his 1965 Senators contract, "they expect you to hit the ball out of the park every time. It isn't that easy."

The American League's perennial also-rans sympathize with Frank. They'll settle for less — something like every other time will do — after sending Claude Osteen, their best pitcher, to the Los Angeles Dodgers in the seven-player deal that brought the 28-year-old slugger to Washington.

Howard said he's delighted to be in Washington and the Senators, who also traded away Chuck Hinton, their best hitter, appear equally pleased. They reportedly will pay the slugger $35,000 — the same salary he got from the Dodgers before failing to hit his weight for them a year ago.

He batted .226, but still hit 24 homers and delivered 69 runs. His top year was 1962, when he hit .296, with 31 home runs and 119 RBIs.

The Detroit Tigers will play 30 night games at home in 1965.

NCAA, Grid Pros Agree On Signup of Players

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association, with some support from the major professional football leagues, has taken a major stride toward preventing the premature signing of college players by the pros.

The NCAA, in its annual convention, took a surprisingly strong stand on its relations with the pros Tuesday and the pros immediately came up with some qualified support.

National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle issued an order to his 14 member teams prohibiting the signing of college players until they have completed their eligibility, including post-session bowl games.

And American Football League Commissioner Joe Foss praised the report by the NCAA's Pro Relations Committee and said he was generally in accord with the proposals.

He said he would take up the matter with the AFL club owners in their meeting in Houston this weekend.

"We'll sit down and go over it word by word and line by line and we'll thrash it out," Foss said.

"I feel confident we can work out something acceptable to the NCAA and all involved."

The NCAA report, made by Louisiana State Athletic Director Jim Corbett, stressed several matters — including the widespread practice of assistant coaches who are on professional payrolls as scouts — in addition to the problem of premature signings.

It was only on the latter point, however, that Rozelle's order touched. His edict read:

"No player will be signed to a contract or any form of document of intent, directly or through an agent, until after completion of all his team's football games, including bowl contests."

"This will be further implemented by appropriate language providing for disciplinary measures to be placed in the league constitution at the next annual meeting to be held next month."

On another matter, Corbett candidly admitted "we may have a couple of hundred assistant coaches throughout the country" who receive payments from the pros for filling in scouting reports.

He urged in his report that the NCAA "deal forthrightly with this reprehensible practice without delay."

The NCAA Council quickly approved his report. It will go before the convention today in the form of a resolution which would empower the NCAA to punish member institutions whose coaches are found guilty of such practices.

NEW YORK (AP) — A lively, brassy, new musical variety hour roared like a tornado into NBC's evening schedule Tuesday night — a real toe-tapper for the folks at home, even the older ones.

"Hullabaloo," as it is called, was produced by, with and for the young crowd, and there certainly was nothing the matter with the music, the dancing or the singing. There was also interesting production background — including room for a 120-piece marching band that would have made Ed Sullivan green with envy.

If one must do a little carping it is to question the judgment of permitting those screaming teen-age girls in the studio audience. They even howled when they saw a tape reproduction of two British singing groups in action.

Their squealing not only was annoying to the living room audience, but obviously disturbed young Jack Jones, the show's host, to a point where he was stumbling over his lines.

Jones, a singer with a pleasant voice and easy style, just doesn't get the squeals, probably because his hair shows signs of recent barbering and he wears ordinary men's clothes. All in all, though, it was a rather exhilarating, bouncy hour.

Later, NBC's tour of our nation's Capitol proved indeed a rare and unusual experience in television. Crews had filmed the vast structure mostly at night.

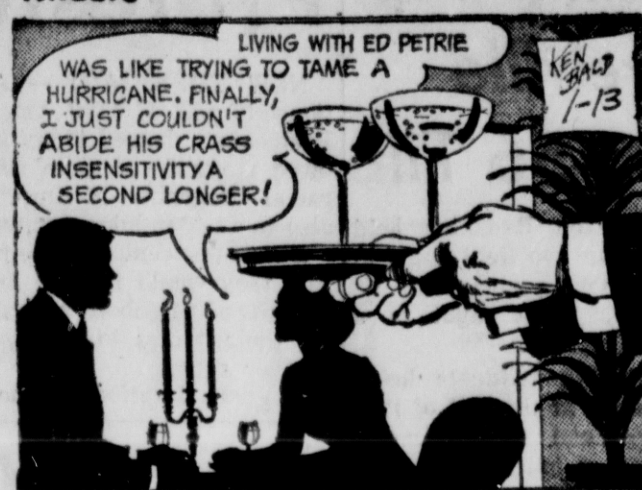

During the leisurely inspection of the statues, the frescoes, the columns and the legislative chambers, corridors and halls, we saw not one human being. With the imaginative camera work and the well-researched narration by Raymond Massey, it was like being taken on a comfortable and private tour.

The lonely, almost ghostly mood was broken a few times by the use of old film clips — of Roosevelt, Churchill and MacArthur, among others, addressing the Congress. It might have been more effective merely to have used their voices echoing as we saw the empty chamber.

Recommended tonight: "Scope," ABC, 10:30-11 EST — documentary on capital punishment, including an interview with a man sentenced to die next month.

Fastest mile at the new Pompano Park harness track in Florida was the 2:00 2-5 turned in by Lorenzo Hanover, a pacer, last March 14.

Cincinnati downed Dayton 76-65, Boston College edged Rhode Island 107-105, Wake Forest crushed Georgia Tech 97-78, Yale beat Brown 87-55 and Arkansas thumped Rice 79-61 in other games.

Cincinnati, playing at home, was down 12 points to Dayton at halftime. Led by Ken Cunningham and Ron Rolfe, the Bearcats rallied to tie at 44-44 and then went on a 16-point spree that sewed things up. Rolfe got 26 points and Cunningham 19.

Wake Forest also chalked up a triumph away from home by defeating Georgia Tech at Atlanta behind Bob Leonard's 29 points and Richard Herring's 20.

Virginia Tech and Connecticut both won on the road in other games. VPI downed William and Mary 87-75 at Williamsburg, Va., and Connecticut whipped New Hampshire 82-62 at Durham, N.H.

Howard Seen As Help to Nat Problem

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Frank Howard probably is stuck with his problem unless he can help the Washington Senators solve theirs.

"The trouble is that when you're as big as I am," the 6-foot-7, 250-pound outfielder told newsmen Tuesday after signing his 1965 Senators contract, "they expect you to hit the ball out of the park every time. It isn't that easy."

The American League's perennial also-rans sympathize with Frank. They'll settle for less — something like every other time will do — after sending Claude Osteen, their best pitcher, to the Los Angeles Dodgers in the seven-player deal that brought the 28-year-old slugger to Washington.

Howard said he's delighted to be in Washington and the Senators, who also traded away Chuck Hinton, their best hitter, appear equally pleased. They reportedly will pay the slugger $35,000 — the same salary he got from the Dodgers before failing to hit his weight for them a year ago.

He batted .226, but still hit 24 homers and delivered 69 runs. His top year was 1962, when he hit .296, with 31 home runs and 119 RBIs.

The Detroit Tigers will play 30 night games at home in 1965.

NEW YORK (AP) — A lively, brassy, new musical variety hour roared like a tornado into NBC's evening schedule Tuesday night — a real toe-tapper for the folks at home, even the older ones.

"Hullabaloo," as it is called, was produced by, with and for the young crowd, and there certainly was nothing the matter with the music, the dancing or the singing. There was also interesting production background — including room for a 120-piece marching band that would have made Ed Sullivan green with envy.

If one must do a little carping it is to question the judgment of permitting those screaming teen-age girls in the studio audience. They even howled when they saw a tape reproduction of two British singing groups in action.

Their squealing not only was annoying to the living room audience, but obviously disturbed young Jack Jones, the show's host, to a point where he was stumbling over his lines.

Jones, a singer with a pleasant voice and easy style, just doesn't get the squeals, probably because his hair shows signs of recent barbering and he wears ordinary men's clothes.

All in all, though, it was a rather exhilarating, bouncy hour.

Later, NBC's tour of our nation's Capitol proved indeed a rare and unusual experience in television. Crews had filmed the vast structure mostly at night.

During the leisurely inspection of the statues, the frescoes, the columns and the legislative chambers, corridors and halls, we saw not one human being. With the imaginative camera work and the well-researched narration by Raymond Massey, it was like being taken on a comfortable and private tour.

The lonely, almost ghostly mood was broken a few times by the use of old film clips — of Roosevelt, Churchill and MacArthur, among others, addressing the Congress. It might have been more effective merely to have used their voices echoing as we saw the empty chamber.

NCAA, Grid Pros Agree On Signup of Players

CHICAGO (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association, with some support from the major professional football leagues, has taken a major stride toward preventing the premature signing of college players by the pros.

The NCAA, in its annual convention, took a surprisingly strong stand on its relations with the pros Tuesday and the pros immediately came up with some qualified support.

National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle issued an order to his 14 member teams prohibiting the signing of college players until they have completed their eligibility, including post-session bowl games.

And American Football League Commissioner Joe Foss praised the report by the NCAA's Pro Relations Committee and said he was generally in accord with the proposals.

He said he would take up the matter with the AFL club owners in their meeting in Houston this weekend.

"We'll sit down and go over it word by word and line by line and we'll thrash it out," Foss said.

"I feel confident we can work out something acceptable to the NCAA and all involved."

The NCAA report, made by Louisiana State Athletic Director Jim Corbett, stressed several matters — including the widespread practice of assistant coaches who are on professional payrolls as scouts — in addition to the problem of premature signings.

It was only on the latter point, however, that Rozelle's order touched. His edict read:

"No player will be signed to a contract or any form of document of intent, directly or through an agent, until after completion of all his team's football games, including bowl contests."

"This will be further implemented by appropriate language providing for disciplinary measures to be placed in the league constitution at the next annual meeting to be held next month."

On another matter, Corbett candidly admitted "we may have a couple of hundred assistant coaches throughout the country" who receive payments from the pros for filling in scouting reports.

He urged in his report that the NCAA "deal forthrightly with this reprehensible practice without delay."

The NCAA Council quickly approved his report. It will go before the convention today in the form of a resolution which would empower the NCAA to punish member institutions whose coaches are found guilty of such practices.

Noted Lecturer On Chamber Card

ARMIN C. OLDSSEN

An entertaining evening is the objective when the Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce conducts its Annual Meeting Jan. 21 at the Fairgrounds 4-H and Grange Building.

Armin C. Oldsen of Ft. Wayne, Ind., will be guest speaker. He is an internationally known author, lecturer and counselor on personal and family relations problems.

The renowned speaker will base his message on "When Life Is in Balance." John Wood, organist from Xenia, will provide entertainment.

The session will get under way at 6:30 p.m. with a social period, followed by dinner. Tickets are being distributed by Chamber directors.

THE AGENDA will include a review of Chamber activities in 1964 and a "Program of Action" rundown for 1965. The projects for the coming year are being prepared now by committees.

Scheduled for recognition in the fast-moving session will be outgoing president Dale DeLong, new proxy Jack Clifton and new vice president Earl Palm.

The dinner will be prepared and served by Hedges Chapel personnel. Mrs. E. R. Bennett, Chamber secretary, announced that various literature and publications, much of it from foreign countries, will be displayed during the evening.

Three Minor Changes Made For Elementary Buildings

Three minor change orders in the elementary building program were adopted last night during a comparatively brief session conducted by the Circleville Board of Education.

The revisions were made in plans relative to the addition at Mound St. and the new building at High St. The changes will result in a net savings of nearly $1,500. Superintendent Fritz Jacobs said.

Considerable time was spent in discussing plans for Education - Business - Industry Day. The board was informed by a Chamber of Commerce committee that the date of EBI Day had been changed. It had originally been scheduled for Feb. 24. However, because of conflicting meetings, a tentative date in March has been set.

Another area of discussion that consumed much of the board's meeting time centered on possibilities of establishing a vocational education program.

UPON a recommendation by Jacobs, the board plans to invite Dr. Byrl Shoemaker, director of vocational education for the State Department to the next meeting to outline a typical program.

A study will be made to determine the need for such a program on the local level. If the board finds ample need and interest, it will then invite county board members to a future meeting to further explore the vocational education area.

Jacobs said there is a remote possibility the studies could result in a joint district (of city and county) for vocational education purposes. The superintendent was attending a meeting today in Columbus and Dr. Shoemaker was to be one of the speakers. The session was to be for city superintendents.

In other official action, the board approved the purchase of equipment items for the high school physics department. The installation of an intercommunication system for S. Court St. School also met with board approval. The intercom is to be installed, probably during the summer months, by school maintenance staffs.

A chain link fence is to be installed at the site of the Mound St. addition. The fence, 242 feet total, will be erected along the east and north side where the addition is being constructed. The contract was awarded to the Continental Chain Link Fence Co., Columbus.

Redskins Top Laurelville In 63-56 Tilt

The Kingston Redskins held Laurelville to two field goals in the third quarter and went on to win, 63-56, last night in a game at Kingston.

The visiting Wildcats held a 16-14 edge at the end of the first period and were still leading, 33-32, at halftime.

Coming out in the third quarter, the Kingston defense was stacked to stop Laurelville's Rick Unger who scored 20 points in the first half.

Although Unger finished the game with 31 points for scoring honors, he was held to 11 in the second half.

LAURELVILLE held the edge in the accuracy department, canning 23 of 48 attempts from the field, for 47 per cent.

But the Redskins fired at a more rapid rate, hitting 27 of their 69 shots for a 39 per cent average.

Kingston now has an overall record of eight wins and six losses. Laurelville has a 1-11 mark.

The Kingston reserves won the preliminary game by a 53-50 score.

Kingston plays a Ross County League game Friday at Union. Laurelville is idle until Jan. 23 when the Wildcats host Miller.

Protestants OK Residential Integration

NEW YORK (AP) — A nationwide poll of 7,000 American Protestants showed today that a large majority of them support racial integration in church and also in residential communities. But 52 per cent of those polled said they would respect the objections of neighbors by not selling their homes to a person of another race.

The poll, described as the first national survey of its kind, was taken by the Christian Herald magazine, an interdenominational Protestant monthly. It distributed ballots with four questions for its 455,000 readers across the country and received replies from 7,000.

The questions — and responses to them — were as follows:

BPOE Ritualistic Activity Returns to Circleville Lodge

Ritualistic contests, first to be held in Circleville Elks Lodge for nearly two decades, will feature a district conference here Saturday and Sunday.

Because of its central location in South Central Ohio, Circleville Lodge once was a center of ritualistic activity. But with the development of rapid and easy transportation other lodges in the 14-lodge district have been playing host in recent years.

Of the 14 lodges, six will floor ritualistic teams in a contest to pick a champion for competition in the state elimination which, in turn, will provide an entry for national competition. Host Lodge Circleville will take the floor first — at 6 p. m. Saturday.

JACKSON LODGE, long a standout in ritualistic work, will be heard at 6 p. m. followed by Newark at 7.

Lancaster's team, rated by some observers as the "dark-horse" entry, is scheduled for its turn at 9 a. m. Sunday. Defending district champion Chillicothe will appear at 10, followed by Columbus at 11.

Ritualistic judges for the contest are Gene Pracht of Lima, Robert Kennedy of Dover and Cecil Rappe of Modoc, Ind.

Computer of scores will be Robert Gast of Jackson.

A new scoring rule states that if the runnerup team's tally is within one-half of a percentage point of the winner, the runnerup also will be eligible for the state contest.

Had this rule been in effect in 1964, the Circleville team would have gone to the state contest since it was edged by one-tenth of a percentage point by Chillicothe. At the same time Circleville placed four men on the seven-man all-district team.

THESE same four men — William Rickey, Marshall Winner, Chester McKenzie and Forrest Webster — are on this year's team.

you object to a person of another race as your next door neighbor? Seventy-four per cent said no, 23 per cent said yes, and 3 per cent were undecided.

2. In your community, would you sell your house to a person of another race if your neighbors disapprove? Thirty-four per cent said yes, but 52 per cent said no, and 14 per cent were undecided.

3. In your church, if a person of another race applies for membership and meets the qualifications, would you personally accept him? Eighty-one per cent said yes, 18 per cent said no, and 1 per cent were undecided.

4. In your church, if a person of another race were a member and qualified, would you vote for him for church office? Eighty-eight per cent said yes, 10 per cent no, and 2 per cent were undecided.

The Rev. Dr. Daniel A. Poling, the magazine's editor, said in a state-by-state computation of the "tolerance rank" showed Alaska, Hawaii and Utah at the top of the list, and at the bottom, Alabama, Mississippi and South Carolina.

At the top, in Alaska, 100 per cent were agreeable to interracial residential communities, church membership and church office-holding, and 78 per cent would sell houses to buyers of another race even if neighbors objected.

At the bottom, in South Carolina, 31 per cent supported integration in residential communities, 30 per cent in churches and church offices, and 12 per cent would sell their houses to persons of another race.

This is a year-end clearance so hurry in for the best selection. There are shoes for every foot, but of course, not every size and color in every style.

AVOID COLD MISERY!

Let Risch Pharmacy show you how you can immunize yourself against colds this winter with ENTORAL — Entoral is a "bacterial vaccine" and is taken "ORALLY". You merely take "one" Entoral capsule daily — to prevent colds all winter long. The best news of all is that the 50 day supply — which regularly sells for $1.30 is now on sale — at RISCH PHARMACY for only 99c. "Entoral" can be taken by all ages — so ask for "Entoral" at RISCH PHARMACY.

A 50 days supply is only 99c. So stop in today — buy E-N-T-O-R-A-L.
